BetHandling, Against Law, Is Admitted By Erickson

Gambler Arouses Ire Of Senators at Quiz; Puts Net Income in 1949 at $100,000

By Chalmers M. Roberts
Post Reporter

An exasperated Senate Commerce subcommittee yesterday learned from gambler Frank Erickson:

That his 1949 net income was around $100,000 and that it was about the same in 1948 though there have been years in which he did better or worse.

That he violates the law by accepting bets "from whoever cares to bet with me," the bulk of the wagers being lay-off bets.

That he handles around $20,000 to $40,000 in bets daily and has had customers in all 48 States.

That he pays his brother, Leonard Erickson, $20,000 a year just for toting his money to a New York bank.

No Part in Syndicate

That he is strictly an individual operator and has no part in any crime or other syndicate.

That he is a business associate of St. Louis "Betting Commissioner" James J. Carroll and has sold Texas wildcat oil leases to Frank Costello, the gambler who testified on Thursday.

In fact, Erickson said in reply to a question, he had made a point of talking to both Carroll and Costello about their own appearances before the Senators. When Senator Tobey (R., N. H.) asked what Costello had told him, Erickson smilingly replied:

"He said you were very nice to him."

The pudgy gambler flushed frequently as he talked in a squeaky whisper, full of Brooklynese. He said he had a cold. At one point during his hour's testimony his bald head was damp with perspiration as Chairman McFarland (D., Ariz.) threatened him with a contempt citation because he wouldn't name his New York bank. He finally did so after consulting his brother, sitting in the back of the room.

McFarland's Anger Aroused

The usually calm and affable McFarland exploded when Erickson and his attorney, O. R. McGuire of Washington, complained that the committee wasn't being fair in asking about the gambler's professional secrets:

"Don't tell me I'm not being fair. Don't tell me that. What I think about you wouldn't go into print."

Erickson meekly apologized.

The 54-year-old gambler, who said later to reporters that he was a World War I soldier in Washington for six months "guarding President Wilson," was one of five witnesses yesterday. The committee is considering legislation to ban interstate transmission of gambling information. Erickson, like Costello and Joe Adonis (due to testify later on), was called as one with "expert knowledge" of gambling.

Other witnesses yesterday were Kansas City's Mayor William E. Kemp; Russell Brophy, a Los

Nats Beat Yanks, Pull Triple Play

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

The storybook came to life for 18,862 delirious Griffith Stadium fans last night when Steve Nagy and Irv Noren filched a couple of chapters out of Frank Merriwell, and took the Nats to a 5-4 victory over the Yankees.

In the order of their occurrence, the heroics were:

A triple play that wiped three Yankees off the bases in the third inning.

Noren's seemingly last-ditch homer over the right center wall with a man on base that tied the score in the seventh.

And then, the frosting on the cake: A home run by Pitcher Nagy himself, personally, that won the ball game in the eighth.

The jolt to the Yankees was doubly painful in that they were feeling quite smug about a 4-2 lead when they rushed Joe Page into the ball game in the seventh, supposedly the guarantee that victory was a matter of only three more innings. It was Page who was the victim of both clouts.

Nagy's homer, with none on and two out in the eighth, was a race against Yankee throwing arms — an inside-the-park clout that was the more spectacular because the little pitcher was legging it out on a right ankle that was bruised by a Yankee hit earlier in the inning.

Bucky Harris' draftee from the Coast League, who had beaten the Yankees last week in his first start for the Nats, went to the plate with two out in the eighth, and lined a Page pitch into the deepest corner of center field.

Joe DiMaggio eventually tracked

Agnew to Take Command at 6th Precinct

Capt. John J. Agnew will take over command of the Sixth Precinct and Capt. Thomas Rasmussen will succeed Agnew as head of the Central Communications and Records Bureau, it was learned yesterday.

Maj. Robert J. Barrett, superintendent of police, is expected to confirm the changes today so they will be effective Monday.

The changes stem from the retirement Monday of Inspector Floyd A. Truscott.

Truscott, as previously announced, will be replaced as executive officer and No. 2 man in the Police Department by Inspector Walter T. Storm.

This left an inspector post vacant and this went to Capt. Archie M. Winfree, boss of the Sixth Precinct since 1947.

So Agnew will succeed Winfree at the Sixth Precinct and Rasmussen, who will be sworn in as a captain Monday, takes over Agnew's job.

There will be other changes down the line, a new lieutenant to succeed Rasmussen, then a new sergeant and new corporal.

Agnew, 49, a native of Philadelphia, was appointed to the police force in December, 1924, after a two-year hitch as a Marine. He was advanced to the rank of lieutenant in 1940. He has four commendations to his credit.

In September, 1947, he was made an acting captain and placed in charge of the new Central Communications and Records Bureau that was being set up to streamline the Police Department's system of crime reporting.

Rasmussen, 43, was appointed to the force in 1931 and has been a lieutenant at the First Precinct for two years. Formerly assigned to the Second Precinct, he was promoted from sergeant to lieutenant less than three years ago.

82ND DIVISION TROOPERS FLOAT TO EARTH IN "EXERCISE SWARMER" INVASION MANEUVER AT FORT BRAGG, N. C.

5 Die, 63 Hurt; Greatest Air Drop Is Staged

By John G. Norris

Camp Mackall, N. C., April 28. America's military chiefs saw need for greater emphasis on tactical aviation, better coordinated air-ground training and improved weapons here after watching the greatest air-borne drop in United States peace-time history.

Two of the 300 paratroopers jumping in the kickoff of "Operation Swarmer" today were killed and 63 were injured, none seriously. This brings the death score of the maneuvers to five to date, including three pilots who crashed in preliminary air operations.

Two regimental combat teams from the Eleventh and Eighty-second Airborne Divisions dropped on this abandoned wartime base in the opening phase of an exercise from which defense chiefs expect to learn much.

They hope to determine the feasibility of sustained military operations supplied entirely by air—which if proved might revolutionize warfare.

The aerial life-line—a modified version of the Berlin airlift—got under way at 12:30 today, shortly after the paratroopers of the Eleventh "captured" the airstrip here.

After witnessing the drop, the air support operations and beginning of the airlift, top military commanders including J. Lawton Collins, Army Chief of Staff, had some comments to make.

Field Denies He Ever Called Or Knew Lattimore As a Red

The "millionnaire Communist," Frederick Vanderbilt Field, yesterday gave a blanket denial to all previous assertions that he knew Owen Lattimore as a Communist or worked with him or referred to him as such.

But, under two hours of dogged questioning by members and counsel of the Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee, Field refused to answer questions about much of anything else—including whether he was himself a Communist, whether he knew a long list of other people, and in what meetings he participated.

His grounds for refusal were, exclusively, the privilege he felt he enjoyed under the Fifth Amendment against self-incrimination.

Nevertheless, subcommittee counsel Edward Morgan asked the Senators to consider contempt action against Field, and said he felt Field's behavior had been "contemptuous."

Even more vigorously, Senator Hickenlooper (R., Iowa), a member of the subcommittee, asserted he will press to the utmost to have Field charged with contempt of the Senate.

And Senator Lodge (R., Mass.) observed at the end of the session, with an obvious reference to Field's wealth and upbringing, that here was "a shocking spectacle of a man with every material advantage this country can give refusing to help us do our public duty."

Field, mannerly and quiet but adamant, read a prepared statement that denied inclusively though not in detail, all the accusations made against him by former Communist Louis F. Budenz, and also the allegations made by Budenz of references to Lattimore by Field, or associations of the two men.

But when Morgan began to ask him about the various meetings that Budenz had spoken of, Field began the long and almost unbroken series of refusals to answer.

Even to questions where the Truman, Hoover Didn't Discuss Non-Red U. N., Ross Asserts

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

What President Truman said to former President Hoover over the telephone Thursday night was disclosed at the White House yesterday—and also what he did not say to him.

The two men, reporters were told, did not discuss the controversial part of Mr. Hoover's speech before the American Newspaper Publishers' Association in New York, his proposal that the United Nations "be reorganized without the Communist nations in it."

Although nobody at the White House said so publicly, there was every indication President Truman feels this country should give its "whole-hearted support to the United Nations." That's the way he put it when he laid the cornerstone of the permanent U. N. headquarters in New York last autumn. He has said the same thing many times since.

Mr. Hoover's proposal to shake up the U. N. and oust Russia and her satellites got some cheers in Congress. However, it was rejected by State Department officials and by two Republican consultants of the department—former Senators John Foster Dulles and John Sherman Cooper.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt denounced the Hoover proposal as "the surest way to war." Brig. Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, president of the U. N. General Assembly, warned that the U. N. was "the only workable bridge that we have today between two hostile camps on either side of the chasm." Trygve Lie, secretary general of the U. N., said that if Russia and her satellites were excluded there would no longer be any world organization.

President Truman listened in to the broadcast of Mr. Hoover's speech, and then put in a call for him. Word of this got around at the New York banquet.

White House Press Secretary Charles G. Ross talked to the President yesterday morning and told reporters:

"The President said he told Mr. Hoover he was glad to see him making a call for the mobilization of the moral forces of the world."

Asked about the proposal to have the free nations break away from the Communist bloc, Ross said this phase of the Hoover speech "did not enter into the discussion."

"How does the President feel on that phase?" a reporter asked.

"No comment," Ross replied.

Mr. Dulles, after a talk with the President yesterday, told reporters that there was "no occasion to destroy the universality of the United Nations." He added:

"Anything we need to do in the

Customs Tape Is Reduced in Treasury Bill

The Treasury sent a draft bill to Congress yesterday designed to cut away the customs red tape that now entangles foreign goods entering the United States.

The bill would overhaul the customs procedures in the present 20-year-old tariff law, although it would not change tariff rates. One of its incidental effects would cut 21 cents from the present duty on a bottle of Scotch whisky; another would let Americans get up to $10 worth of foreign goods by mail without paying customs duty.

But the real importance of the bill, in Administration eyes, is that it should help foreign countries earn more dollars in the American market. Exporters abroad have complained for years that American customs red tape hurts them more than tariff rates.

Democratic members of the House Ways and Means Committee issued a statement yesterday saying they would consider the proposed bill when they finished work on the tax bill. But it is late in the session, and the Senate Finance Committee will have its hands full of tax matters for many weeks.

So it was doubtful last night whether Congress could act on the proposed customs bill at this session.

U. S. Reports Gain in Jobs, Idleness Drop

America is back within a stone's throw of 60 million jobs, thanks to a spring boomlet in business.

The number of persons with jobs reached 59,998,000 early this month, taking into account 1,330,000 in the armed forces along with 58,668,000 civilian workers, the Census Bureau reported yesterday.

A 1,117,000 pickup in jobs in industry and on the farms, between March 11 and April 8—on top of a 598,000 gain the preceding month—put civilian employment at its 1950 peak.

The number of jobless meanwhile sank to a 1950 low of 3,515,000 on April 8—reflecting a 608,000 decline from March. Previously there had been a 561,000 reduction in unemployment between February and March.

The jump in new openings would have cut much deeper into the unemployment total had not 508,000 persons—many of them housewives and students—entered the ranks of job seekers in late March and early April.

Secretary of Commerce Sawyer hailed "the welcome gains of the past two months."

The Census Bureau cautioned that the unemployment decline was "at least partly seasonal in character, with (job) gains in construction, farming and trade a major factor in the change."

But the news on the business front gave hope that the spring improvement might be sustained into the summer.

Phone, Travel, Cabaret Taxes Are Cut By House Committee

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

Slashing cabaret, communications and transportation levies, the House Ways and Means Committee yesterday broke through President Truman's ceiling on excise tax cuts to approve a grand total of 967 million dollars in revenue cutbacks.

Local residential and suburban telephone calls were included in the communications tax cuts as the committee departed at many points from Mr. Truman's recommendations.

By slicing some items less then Mr. Truman asked, notably long-distance telephone calls and freight transportation taxes, the House unit held revenue losses in the communications and transportation field to 357 million dollars.

The President had recommended cuts up to 505 million dollars in these categories. It was the first time the committee had pared less than the Administration asked from any given levies but over-all reductions nonetheless shot well over the President's limit.

Mr. Truman set a top 655 million dollars for all excise tax cutting. Reductions voted by the committee yesterday carried estimated revenue losses 312 million dollars above this limit, to just short of the one billion dollar mark. Unless the Treasury loss is made up by more taxes elsewhere, the bill runs a clear threat of veto.

Nor was there any assurance that the excise cut field day was over although the House group has pretty well combed the 1941, 1942

U. S. Moves to Avert Strike By AFL Bakers Across Nation

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

The Federal Government moved yesterday to stave off a Nation-wide strike of AFL bakers, aimed at winning a coast-to-coast company-wide bargaining contract from Continental Baking Co., the Nation's biggest bread maker.

Cyrus S. Ching, head of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, named a special three-man panel to step into the dispute and seek to avert the strike, scheduled for Tuesday morning.

Although the dispute involves only one company and one union, the entire baking industry—and the other service industries as well—have a big stake in the outcome of the controversy. That's because the chief issue in the fight is, ultimately, industry-wide bargaining.

Continental has 83 plants in 67 cities, including Washington. Of its 14,000 employes, around 5300 are members of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers International Union. For many years the company and union have bargained with each other on an area and local basis.

Lost year, the bakery workers got a new president, William Schnitzler, who promptly led a union movement for dealing with the bakeries on a Nation-wide basis. Continental was selected as the first—and for the time being,

Twisters Hit At 6 Places In Texas and Oklahoma

Hospitals Jammed; Scores of Buildings Are Damaged; Power Lines Torn Down

Holdenville, Okla., April 28 (AP). — Savage tornadoes smashed into Texas and Oklahoma late today, killing at least nine persons and injuring more than 100. Scores of buildings were damaged.

The deadly black funnels struck in at least six places. Hardest hit was Holdenville. The Red Cross reported five persons killed and 100 injured in this east-central Oklahoma town about 40 miles from McAlister.

Another twister hit Clyde, Tex., killing at least three persons and injuring five. Two or three families were reported missing. Clyde is 16 miles east of Abilene in west Texas.

Four miles south of Hobart, Okla., a farmer was killed, his wife injured and several buildings damaged by a tornado.

Help Is Rushed in Both Holdenville hospitals were jammed with injured and several were sent to Wewoka. Others are being taken to the National Guard Armory.

Ambulances, fire equipment, portable power units, nurses and doctors were rushed here from nearby Wewoka and Seminole.

The Highway Patrol in Oklahoma City said troopers at the scene reported the wind cut a swath of destruction six blocks wide and 18 blocks long in the northeast section.

All power lines were reported down and some telephone circuits out.

Hail Adds to Damage

The first Oklahoma twister — at Hobart—was blamed indirectly for a death by heart attack at nearby Sentinel.

Cy Yalees, 63, assistant bank cashier, heard a twister was approaching. He telephoned his wife, warned her to get into a storm cellar, then collapsed and died. Ironically, Sentinel was by-passed.

In Texas, pounding hail—in some places bigger than baseballs—added to the damage, as thunder rumbled and lightning flashed.

At Clyde three members of one family died, trapped in their house.

It wasn't the first time Clyde had known the tornado's fury. In June, 1938, a twister killed 13 persons and damaged most of the small town.

Killed at Clyde were Mr. and Mrs. Bert Tabor and their unmarried daughter, Annie Mae, about 31.

Killed by the Hobart tornado was farmer R. A. Glasscock. His wife was hurt.

Hughes County Deputy Sheriff Martin Treat said the storm first dropped into the south part of Holdenville.

Then it smacked into the northeast section with its full fury.

Myers Must Serve 20 to 60 Months in Campbell Death

Judge F. Dickinson Letts yesterday sentenced Ralph W. Myers, 44, to serve from 20 months to five years in prison for attempting an abortion on Mrs. Jean Campbell, 20, last January.

The woman, mother of two children, died following the operation.

The sentence is the maximum allowed under the jury's verdict. Although the jury found Myers guilty of using a syringe in the illegal operation, the panel found him innocent of causing Mrs. Campbell's death.

Judge Letts declined to show mercy toward the defendant and said that the jury had shown all the leniency to which Myers was entitled.

Phone Union Drops Pay, Hour Demands

The CIO Communications Workers of America disclosed yesterday the union has given up its demand for higher wages and shorter hours in its contract negotiations with the Bell Telephone System.

In return, the union said, the Bell subsidiaries are conceding a reduction in the number of years it takes an apprentice to reach to the top experience level of pay, which will mean a raise in pay "for a substantial majority" of the 250,000 union employes.

The CWA Newsletter also stated yesterday that the union is also winning concessions in the reclassification of jobs and town differentials.

W. E. Pay Boosts Expected

The union's official publication added: "No general wage increase is included in the package being wrapped up in the negotiations. However, indications point to general wage increases within the Western Electric bargaining units where wage scales are set differently from the operating companies. A similar situation is expected to apply to the Bell Laboratories.

Peace negotiations are progressing, though slowly, union sources here said yesterday. There was no confirmatory report, however, from the Bell System.

CWA had called a Nation-wide strike against the Bell companies for last Wednesday, in a move to win a 15-cent-an-hour "package" of benefits. The walkout was called off shortly before the deadline because of "recent developments" toward a peaceful solution of the dispute.

Strike Possibility Remains

Postponement (of the strike) was seen as removing the probability of international strike action in 1950," the CWA Newsletter said yesterday.

Nontheless, there was still a possibility of a Nation-wide work stoppage in the 25 Bell companies. Some 10,000 Western Electric installation workers, who belong to CWA's Division 6, have been on strike during the past week over accumulated grievances. Several units of Division 6, including the 250 members here, have been seeking to establish picket lines and thereby bar all CWA members from their Bell System jobs.

Western Electric installation men here have notified their divisional and national leaders that they intend to set up picket lines around all Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. installations on Monday unless agreement is reached in their dispute. Similar picketing action has been threatened by WE units in Baltimore and Cleveland.

More than 100 CWA telephone workers at Albuquerque, N. Mex., expressed their impatience with the progress of negotiations yesterday by walking out of the exchange for an hour. They returned to work only after ordered to do so by their leaders.

Negotiations between C & P and CWA's two divisions here remained deadlocked yesterday.

Dock Strike In London Seen Ending

London, April 28 (U.P.).—The Labor government today appeared to have broken a 10-day wildcat strike on London's docks by resorting to the sternest tactics it has used against the unionists who are its strongest supporters.

Two thousand of the 14,000 strikers, threatened with loss of their jobs, today voted to go back to work Saturday. By noon more than 100 had returned.

The government said it would withdraw the 550 troops who have been acting as stevedores, but would have them ready Monday in case of need.

Easing of the dock strike coincided with a development that drew protests from all over the country—a government-ordered increase in freight rates that threatened to cause the worst single increase in the cost of living since the pound was devalued last September.

At the same time, Conservative leader Winston Churchill predicted the "evil reign" of the "spendthrift" Laboratories would end soon. The Conservatives have tried several times to force Labor out of office by defeating them in a confidence vote, but so far they have not succeeded.

Dock officials were confident most strikers would report for duty Monday morning, the "work-or-be-fired" deadline set in last night's ultimatum from the National Dock Labor Board.

North Dakotan Calls $100,000 Offer 'Insult'

Dickinson, N. Dak., April 28 (AP). A prominent cattleman yesterday described President Truman's offer of $100,000 from his emergency fund to aid the State's flood victims as an "insult to our people."

Ray Schnell, a director of the North Dakota Stockmen's Association and the North Dakota Hereford Association, said he feels his viewpoint reflects the sentiment of many ranchers and farmers who have suffered substantial losses.

and 1943 wartime excise field. Only wartime excises not considered as yet are liquor, tobacco and stamp taxes, apparently not scheduled for reduction.

Further Slashes Possible

Since the committee has changed its mind before, and all actions to date are tentative, the door was still open for further upward, or even downward, revision of the 967 million dollars pared to date.

A cutback over night in the cabaret tax, from 20 percent to 10 percent, touched off yesterday's round on the tax bill.

Next, the committee took this action on communications taxes:

Cut the tax on local residential telephone calls from 15 percent to 10 percent, but left the 15 percent tax unchanged on local business telephone calls. Mr. Truman left all local calls off his excise cut list.

Short Toll Phone Calls

Reduced the rate on all short toll telephone calls (costing under 24 cents) from 15 to 10 percent. This cut applied to residential and business phones alike. Mr. Truman recommended no reduction.

Carved the rate on all long-distance telephone and radio telephone calls from 25 to 20 percent. Mr. Truman wanted this rate cut to 15 percent.

Cut back the tax on domestic telegraph, radio and cable dispatches from 25 percent to 10 percent. The President had recommended a cut to 15 percent.

Reduced the rate on leased wires from 25 to 20 percent. Here also the President recommended a 15 percent tax.

In the passenger travel and freight transportation field, the committee took this action:

Cut the passenger rate on railroad, bus and airplane transportation, including Pullman travel, from 15 percent to 10 percent. This was what the President recommended.

Freight Levy Halved

Reduced the freight transportation tax from 3 percent to 1½ percent. Mr. Truman wanted to eliminate this tax entirely.

Cut the separate tax on transportation of coal from 4 cents to 2 cents a short ton.

Exempted boats carrying fishing parties from the 10 percent travel tax.

At an earlier morning session, the committee had reversed itself on at least one prior decision and had revised some previous minor decisions.

After deciding Thursday to let the 20 percent cabaret tax stand the committee did an about-face and halved the levy. In addition, it decided to exempt from the night club levy all night clubs which sell only soft drinks.

To Seek New Revenue

The committee further clarified an exemption voted earlier on "immersion heaters" by confining the exemption to baby bottle warmers.

In another reversal, the group voted to repeal entirely the 5 percent manufacturers excise on rebuilt and reconditioned auto parts.

Next week the committee will launch its efforts to make up all or most of the lost revenue. Mr. Truman asked a net increase of one billion dollars from plugging loopholes and upping corporation, inheritance and gift taxes. But most members say they will be lucky to come close to striking a balance.

Beef Prices Rise 2-6 Cents In Local Stores

Retail beef prices were up 2 to 6 cents a pound yesterday in many local stores, over last week's levels.

The retail increases reflected higher wholesale prices ascribed to a smaller supply of cattle in Medwestern markets, and to good demand.

Spokesmen for some of the large chain stores whose beef prices remained steady or were up only 2 cents a pound said they expected a 5-to-8-cent general rise next week, as compared to last week.

While wholesale prices of pork, hams and lamb were 2 to 3 cents a pound higher this week, retail prices of these meats remained fairly steady in most stores.

Chain stores were selling porterhouse and sirloin yesterday for about 99 and 95 cents a pound, although one chain which had not anticipated the wholesale rise advertised sirloin for 85 cents. A store official predicted this would be marked up to 93 to 95 cents by next week.

Comparable chain store prices a month ago were 91 cents for porterhouse and 81 cents for sirloin.

At some independent stores, porterhouse at $1.09 a pound yesterday was up 6 cents, with sirloin at 99 cents, up 4 cents from last week.

Rib roast prices ranged yesterday from 65 to 73 cents generally, and predictions for next week were for a level of about 75 cents for this cut. Chuck roast and hamburger prices had changed little yesterday.

Retailers said they expect to meet some consumer resistance next week if they keep up with wholesale increases, as they expect to.

There was little change in poultry, egg and dairy product prices this week. Some fruits and vegetables were slightly lower, including snap beans, asparagus, beets, new cabbage and new potatoes, carrots, radishes and strawberries.

Soviet Eases Messages

The Soviet Union has shown a disposition to relax present prohibitions against communications across its territory, John N. Hazard of Columbia University said yesterday.

Hazard addressed the forty-fourth annual meeting of the American Society of International Law, which concludes a three-day session at the Carlton Hotel today. His subject was "The Soviet Union and Freedom of Communication."

"The record is clear," Hazard said, "that the USSR recognizes no international obligation to permit trans-national communication." It insists that each state is entirely free to put such restraints as it wishes upon such communication.

"At the same time, the USSR has, apparently, been willing to consider a convention which shall establish such an international obligation, provided that there is a limitation upon absolute freedom."

Treasury Drafts Bill to Cut Customs 'Tape'

der the present law, add unreasonably to the cost of a foreign product and to the difficulty of getting it through American customs; and

2. It would let customs appraisers value goods solely on their "export value," meaning their price for export to the United States. Under the present law, appraisers have to establish both the "foreign value," meaning the price for home consumption in the country of origin, and the "export value," and charge duty on whichever of the two values is higher.

A minor change in the new bill would let travelers bring automobiles, bicycles, baby carriages and other "vehicles" with them into this country without having to post a bond to cover possible import duty. Another change would make it easier for non-residents to move their personal possessions through the United States to other countries.

Drop Undervaluing Penalty

Still another would stop the present practice of slapping a penalty on an importer for undervaluing a product, even though the undervaluing may not be the importer's fault.

The proposed change affecting Scotch whisky and other distilled spirits would wipe out what the Treasury regards as an unfair discrimination against imported goods. The bill would tax imported spirits on the same basis as the domestic, which would mean 21 cents less excise duty on each fifth of Scotch whisky.

Most of the proposed changes are embodied in the Charter of the International Trade Organization, already signed by 54 governments and now the subject of hearings before the House Foreign Affairs Committee. The business and professional groups opposing the ITO do not object to the streamlining of customs procedures, and some of them helped the Treasury to write the new bill.

Treasury officials estimated yesterday that the Government would lose about 20 million dollars in revenue each year under the new bill. But they felt the loss would be more than offset by getting rid of needless paper work, by easing the burdens on customs inspectors and appraisers, and by stimulating the flow of foreign trade.

Oxon Hill School's Memorial Hall To Be Dedicated

The Oxon Hill High School Memorial Hall will be dedicated Sunday at 3 p. m. to six graduates killed in World War II.

A plaque with the names of the six will be unveiled by J. Blandford Moore, president of the alumni association. It will be accepted by Thomas V. Warthen, principal.

The graduates were John T. Fisher, 3rd, Robert E. Powell, George V. Pyles, Richard L. Kerr, J. Lawrence Talbert and Harry J. Tucker.

The school opened last fall and was dedicated last Armistice Day.

lone—target of the drive.

Continental has refused to bargain with the union on a company-wide basis, even though most of the union's locals have voted to back up the campaign. A company spokesman has declared Continental would prefer to be struck than submit to what it alleges to be an opening wedge for union control of the industry.

To obtain the company-wide contract, along with wage and welfare demands, the union has called a strike against 36 Continental plants on Tuesday, when contracts with those plants expire.

Thus far, five bakery workers' locals have refused to go along with the international union's new bargaining program. These are Washington, Milwaukee, San Francisco, Oakland and Sacramento.

Charles B. McClosky, who heads Local 118, said yesterday the District's 1250 union bakers voted to continue their 50-year practice of bragaining with the Washington Employing Bakers Association, which includes Continental. Agreement locally is expected to be reached before the May 1 expiration date, McClosky said.

The union bakers here got $1.65 an hour for day work; $1.85 for night work. They asked for a 10-percent increase in pay together with a welfare fund. The bakeries have offered a hike of 10 cents an hour.

Rent Control Hearings End

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

The Senate Banking and Currency Committee yesterday closed its hearings on the Administration's proposal to extend rent control another year with a series of witnesses in opposition.

Calvin K. Snyder, secretary of the Realtors' Washington Committee of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, told the committee rent decontrol will result in an orderly return to normalcy.

Snyder, who urged Congress to let Federal control end June 30, based his prediction upon the results in 100 cities which have been freed of Federal restrictions since April 1, 1949.

In these 100 cities decontrol resulted in a median over-all rent increase of only 6 percent and unchanged rents for an average of 75 percent of the tenants, according to the fiftieth survey of the real estate market by the National Association of Real Estate Boards, Snyder said.

William W. Russell of Boston, president of the National Apartment Owners Association, told the committee experience in decontrolled areas proves controls are no longer needed.

Despite "dire predictions," he said, there were "no mass evictions, nobody sleeping in the streets, no riots or other chaotic unheavals."

Adm. Kinkaid Honored In N. Y. on Retiring

New York, April 28 (AP)—Admiral Thomas C. Kinkaid, who commanded United States naval units that outslugged the Japanese at Leyte Gulf, stepped down today as commander of the Eastern Sea Frontier and prepared to retire Monday after 46 years of service.

Kinkaid, 62 years old and ramrod straight, was given a hero's welcome at City Hall after a ticker tape parade.

ROBERT DOYLE

PROF. RAYMOND KENNEDY
On book research

Jakarta, Java, U. S. I., April 28 (AP).—Two Americans delving for information on Indonesian life—a university professor and a magazine correspondent—were shot to death yesterday on a jeep trip in West Java.

The victims were Prof. Raymond Kennedy, 43, a Yale sociologist, and Robert Doyle, 31, a Time and Life writer.

They were waylaid and slain near Tomo, in a beautiful mountain country, by a band of four or five men reported to have been in uniform.

Kennedy and Doyle left Jakarta, the U. S. I. capital, in Kennedy's jeep Wednesday for Jogjakarta.

Details of the killings came from Lieut. Col. F. Day, a British military observer for the United Nations in Bandoeng; Col. Karl Hisgen, a U. S. military observer; the U. S. Embassy and a Bandoeng correspondent of radio Jakarta.

Their jeep was halted about noon by the uniformed band. The two were taken to a clearing and shot. The motive for the killings was not disclosed. Villagers were forced to bury the two. The band commandeered a sedan on the highway and headed northeast toward the Java seaport Cheribon. The villagers reported the shooting to Indonesian troops and the bodies were exhumed. The Indonesian army command identified the body of Doyle easily, but had difficulty in identifying Kennedy.

Kennedy, known to his students as "Jungle Jim," was the author of three books on Indonesian ethnology.

He left Yale in 1949 for a year's study abroad as a Guggenheim fellow. A Yale graduate, he was a consultant for the State Department and the Office of Strategic Services (OSS) on southeast Asia. He was a native of Holyoke, Mass.

Government to Press Search for Slayers

Indonesian Ambassador Ali Sastroamidjojo said yesterday his government "will leave no stone unturned" to capture and punish the persons responsible for the murder of Yale Professor Raymond Kenedy and Time-Life correspondent Robert Doyle.

"The people of my country are shocked and horrified by this vicious crime," the ambassador said in a formal statement.

Red Zone 'Police' Report Soviet-Run German Army

Berlin, April 28 (NYHT).—Two former members of the Wehrmacht testified in an American court today that a new German army, including infantry, artillery, tank and air units, had been created in the Soviet Zone of Germany.

They signed sworn confessions they belonged to this Soviet-controlled army and supplied details of the organization and location of the various units, which go under the name of East German Police Alert Force Units. They admitted they were "soldiers," not "policemen."

They estimated the strength of the army at between 36,000 and 40,000. They said it was complemented by a naval force.

The two, Heinz Erich Nocht, 21, and Wilhelm Roloff, 22, were seized with six other East Zone "policemen" in a truck in the American sector of Berlin April 13.

All were accused of wearing uniforms of a para-military organization, possessing arms formerly belonging to the German Army and transporting war materials. The maximum penalty on these charges, which violate Allied occupational laws, is death.

Nocht and Roloff, by pleading guilty and turning state's evidence, asked for clemency and probably will get it when they are sentenced Monday. The others, who plead not guilty, will be tried Tuesday.

The confessions constitute the first legal evidence of a new German Army in the Soviet Zone. It is expected to provide a basis for a joint protest by the U. S., Britain and France to the Soviet Union.

Prague Tells U. S. to Cut Staff to Third

Prague, April 28 (AP).—The Czechoslovak government today accused the American diplomatic mission here of espionage and demanded the United States cut its staff by two thirds.

Czechoslovakia insisted the number of employes in both the United States Embassy in Prague and the United States Consulate in Bratislava be reduced "in due time." No deadline was set.

Many of the employes were "pretending" to perform legitimate work, Czechoslovakia said.

The note was broadcast over Prague radio a few hours after the United States rejected as "baseless" Czechoslovak charges that American soldiers maltreated 58 Czechs flown unwillingly to Erding, Germany, March 24 in the escape of three Czech planes. The United States note was delivered to the Foreign Office yesterday.

The Prague Embassy has 48 State Department employes and about three military attaches, while Bratislava has seven State Department employes. A spokesman for the State Department in Washington said there were 86 "alien"—probably mostly Czech—employes at the two places.

The spokesman stressed that only 11 of the 48 Americans in Prague and one of the seven at Bratislava had "diplomatic status," the rest being clerks and minor employes.)

The Czech note accused American diplomats in Czechoslovakia of "anti-state activities" and said they aided persons whose actions were "aimed against the security of Czechoslovakia."

The note said Czechoslovakia had to demand the cut because "the last trial against persons whose activities were aimed against the security of the State, proved American diplomats organized these activities . . . and took a direct part in them."

This was a reference to the trial of two former employes of the United States Information Service in Prague who said that expelled United States Press Attache Joseph Kolarek was a spy.

The note referred also to the trial of six persons accused of spying for the United States, during which several former American diplomats were accused of organizing "underground espionage groups" and supplying them with radio transmitters.

King of Siam Married in Simple Rites

Bangkok, Thailand, April 28 (AP).—The King of Siam was married to his 17-year-old sweetheart today in simple ceremonies presided over by his 94-year-old grandmother.

Only the immediate family witnessed the Buddhist rites at 10:24 a. m., the moment fixed by royal astrologers as most auspicious for the marriage of Boston-born King Phumiphon Aduldet, 22, to his distant cousin, Princess Sirikit Kitiyakorn.

The couple signed the marriage register and the King paid the customary fee of ten baht (about 50 cents) in the palace of the queen grandmother, Samdet Panlasta. Then the old queen poured on the hands of the kneeling couple the holy water sympolic of purification. The ceremonies ended with presentation by the King to his bride of two special orders of honor studded with 750 diamonds. After an afternoon diplomatic reception, they left to honeymoon at a seaside resort.

Phumiphon is to be crowned formally as King Rama IX May 5.

Mexican Firm Gets World Bank Loan

A loan of 26 million dollars was granted by the World Bank yesterday to the Mexican Light and Power Co., Ltd., (Mexlight) for electric power development.

Part of the loan will be used to refund a short-term loan of 10 million dollars made by the bank in January, 1949, and the remaining 16 million dollars will be used to finance additional materials and equipment needed for Mexlight's four-year program of expansion of its electric power generating, transmission and distribution facilities.

Tito Meets With Press, Sees No War

Belgrade, April 28 (U.P.).—Marshal Tito said today, at his first conference for the foreign press corps in 3½ years, that he does not believe there will be war soon nor will Russian-bloc countries attack Yugoslavia.

Russia, he said, would not "risk becoming an aggressor" by such an attack.

Tito said also that he believes United States is sincere in its offers of economic help to Yugoslavia. As regards arms, he said he never tried to buy arms from the western countries and feel no intense need for them because he sees no possibility of war.

One correspondent was absent—the correspondent for the Russian official news agency Tass. He was not invited.

Asked about his relations with Soviet satellites, Tito said:

"If you are asking whether they are preparing an attack, I do not think so. I do not say this for all time, but for now. They are doing everything possible to make our situation difficult but we are patient and will not be provoked."

Tito said he thought there was widespread dissatisfaction among the people in Soviet satellite countries like Bulgaria but that he did not forsee the possibility of mass uprising or civil war.

[Premier Plastiras announced in parliament, the United Press also reported, that Greece will send a diplomatic representation to Yugoslavia, Tito announced to the Yugoslavia Parliament yesterday that he was sending an envoy to Athens.

[Dastiras, said the United Press, expressed certainty "that the two countries will contribute to the pacification of the Balkans to their common advantage from a political and an economic viewpoint."—Editor's Note.]

Van Zeeland Set To Resign Today In Belgian Crisis

Brussels, (Saturday) April 29 (U.P.).—Catholic Premier-Designate Paul van Zeeland announced shortly after midnight that he will resign later today. He is an ardent supporter of exiled King Liopold III.

Van Zeeland said he made his decision after fruitless negotiations with the Liberal Party, which holds the key to the royal crisis. The premier-designate tried unsuccessfully to get the Liberals to cooperate with his Catholic (Social Christian) Party.

Resignation of Van Zeeland might improve chances of reviving the carefully worked out compromise under which Leopold would return.

French Fire Red Joliot-Curie As Head of Atomic Research

Paris, April 28 (AP).—The French government today fired Frederick Joliot-Curie, outspoken Communist scientist, as head of its atomic energy commission. It also threw him out of the French Institute of Scientific Research.

The action, effective immediately, was acclaimed by both moderate and rightist political leaders. Joliot-Curie made no public comment.

The 50-year-old atomic specialist drew fire by a declaration April 5 to the Twelvth National Congress of the French Communist party: "Communist scientists will never contribute a particle of their science to a war against the Soviet Union."

The American press and unofficial observers in the U. S., which is supplying France with arms under the Atlantic Pact, have questioned the advisability of keeping a Communist in such a high post.

Joliot-Curie, as France's atomic research boss, witnessed the American atomic explosions at Bikini in 1946. The previous year he announced he was joining the Communist Party.

Bidault Wins Test

Paris, April 28 (AP).—The French Government of Georges Bidault won a easy 349-to-178 confidence vote today in the lower house of Parliament on its handling of recent Communist riots.

East Zone Red Assails Harriman As a 'Criminal'

Berlin, April 28 (AP).—The Communist State prosecutor today called Marshall Plan Ambassador W. Averell Harriman a "criminal" in demanding prison sentences for eight German industrialists accused at Dessau of defrauding the Communist East German Government.

Prosecutor Ernst Melsheimer told the People's Court Harriman had a personal financial interest in the Dessau Continental Gas Works, from which the defendants were accused of transferring 25 million dollars of assets to Western Germany.

"Harriman's name means war," the prosecutor told the court.

He contended Harriman was an investor in several American companies holding an inteerst in a Breslau mining company that acquired some gas company stock in exchange for a mine in 1927.

He offered no evidence about Harriman's alleged investment in the succeeding 23 years.

U. S. Ship Due At Tientsin For Refugees

Hongkong, April 28 (U.P.).—The rescue ship General Gordon was due to anchor off Communist-held Tientsin today to pick up 1000 Americans fleeing Red China, but no late report of the liner's whereabouts could be obtained.

They said the news blackout was imposed to prevent any last-minute hitch in arrangements, like those which blocked two previous attempts to rescue Americans from Shanghai.

Most of those expected to board the Gordon at Tientsin had come overland from blockaded Shanghai. They were believed to include United States diplomatic officials.

Gen. Keating Going To Korea on Mission

The army is sending Maj. Gen. Frank A. Keating, a combat leader during World War II and a military governor in Germany after the war, to be top U. S. military adviser to the Korean republic.

He will relieve Brig. Gen. William L. Roberts, who is returning to the U. S. in June to retire.

The Korean republic is one of the last areas remaining in non-Communist hands on the Pacific's western shores. The northern part of the Korean peninsula is Russian-dominated.

Maryland U. Plans New Hospital Unit

Baltimore April 28 (AP).—Contractors' bids on a new pyschiatric unit at University Hospital will be asked about May 15, Dr. H. C. Byrd said today.

The University of Maryland president disclosed the date at a meeting of the university's Board of Regents. He also told the board that bids will be asked at the same time on an addition to the general hospital.

Construction of the 102-bed psychiatric unit and the addition is expected to cost about $2,250,000, with $800,000 coming from the Federal Government. From 60 to 90 additional beds are planned for the general hospital.

Byrd said the plans will be sent to Washington next week and approval should take another week or 10 days. He added the contract probably will be awarded by the end of June.

The board authorized its chairman, William P. Cole, jr., to protest to the State Roads Commission about heavy traffic on a public road cutting across the university's College Park campus. The road links the Baltimore-Washington boulevard with Silver Spring and Takoma Park.

Cole said "15,000 students going in and out of the campus every day" are endangered by the traffic. He suggested building another cut-off to Silver Spring and Takoma Park north of the campus.

The board took no action on the recent Maryland Court of Appeals ruling that the university must admit a Negro to its school of nursing. It had sought to send the applicant, Esther McCready of Baltimore, to Meharry Medical College under a regional education compact set up by a group of Southern States.

The university has not indicated whether it will appeal the decision to the Supreme Court.

Paralyzed

Earth Falls In Trench, Worker Hurt

A laborer working on the new building of The Washington Post was injured yesterday when a large chunk of earth fell on him while he was in a trench.

He is Willie Adams, 38, of 15 K st. ne. Police were told he was laying tile conduit in a trench and was bent over when the earth struck his back, paralyzing him from the waist down.

At Emergency Hospital, doctors were undecided whether the paralysis will be temporary or permanent. Construction officials said this is the first serious accident at the new building.

In a separate accident yesterday, Hubert Jackson, 35, of 1616 S st. nw., suffered severe head injuries when the slipped and fell into the grease pit of an Esso Service Station at 6201 Dix st. ne.

Police said he did not work there, but was walking from the office to the lubrication room when the mishap occurred. He was taken to Gallinger Hospital where he was reported in critical condition.

Dr. A. Magruder MacDonald, District Coroner, yesterday issued a certificate of accidental death in the case of Leonard T. Walter, 69, a carpenter and union shop steward. Walter, who lived at Route 2, Herndon, Va., fell nearly 11 stories, Thursday, in the elevator shaft at a new apartment building at 2500 Wisconsin ave. nw. After an autopsy, Dr. MacDonald said Walter died of multiple fractures, including a skull fracture.

Oakes Ames, Botanist, Curator, Dies at 75

Daytona Beach, Fla., April 28 (AP).—Oakes Ames, 75, internationally known botanist and authority on orchids, a former professor of botany at Harvard, died today.

A graduate of Harvard, Professor Ames also had been curator and director of the Harvard Botanical Museum and director of Boston's Arnold Arboretum. He was author of a seven-volume work on orchids and many shorter botanical papers.

He is survived by his wife, Blanche Ames, whom he married in Lowell, Mass., in 1900. Other survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Frances T. P. Plimpton, New York City; Mrs. J. Paschall Davis, Nashville, and two sons, Oliver of Beverly Farms, Mass., and Amyas, of Cold Springs Harbor, N. Y.

Mrs. Julien, Resident Of Takoma Park, Dies

Mrs. Mary J. Julien, 71, 401 Boyd ave., Takoma Park, Md., died at home yesterday after an illness of three years.

Mrs. Julien came to Washington in 1947 to live with her son-in-law, Harry O'Bree, an employe of the Australian Embassy, and her daughter, Mrs. Margaret O'Bree. A native of Georgia, she went to Texas at 18 and lived there until 1947. Her husband, O. M. Julien, died in 1938.

In addition to her daughter, she is survived by two sons, John, Miami, Ariz., and Gobel, Howe, Texas; two sisters, Miss Beula Holcomb, Greenville, Tex.; and a brother, E. E. Holcomb, Greenville, Tex.

Funeral services and burial will be in Texas.

Woodsboro Rites For Edward T. Boyer

Frederick, Md., April 28 (AP).—Edward Thomas Boyer, 20-year-old apprentice seaman whose body was found in Puget Sound off Bremerton, Wash., will be buried tomorrow at Woodsboro.

Boyer, who had been in the Navy more than two years, had been missing from his station at Bremerton for a month. When the body was recovered, it was estimated it had been in the water about 30 days.

His mother, Mrs. Myrtle J. Boyer of Keymar, said she was informed there were no marks of violence on the body.

Newell Rites Today; Maryland Auctioneer

Baltimore, April 28 (AP).—Funeral services will be held tomorrow for E. T. Newell, 63, widely known Maryland auctioneer. He died yesterday after a long illness.

He had retired from the auction firm which bears his name. He also had organized the Broadway Storage Company, the Mount Royal Hotel here, and the Betterton Hotel at Betterton.

Burial will be in Norfolk, Va.

F. W. Lloyd Dies, Ex-Notre Dame Aide

Sanford, Fla., April 28 (AP).—Francis William Lloyd, about 65, former comptroller and business manager of Notre Dame University, died today at an Orlando hospital after an illness of four months.

For the past year and a half he had lived at Debary plantation estates near Sanford. He is survived by his widow, two daughters and five grandchildren. Final rites will be held here Monday.

Wm. Bralove Dies; Officer Of Bell Cab Co.

William Bralove, 61, secretary-treasurer of the Bell Cab Co. here, died yesterday at the Washington Sanitarium after a brief illness.

Mr. Bralove, whose home was in Layhill, Md., suffered a stroke while playing golf at the Indian Springs Golf Club Thursday.

He was born in Philadelphia and came to Washington shortly after his discharge from military service at the end of World War I. He entered the automobile rental business and in 1927 organized the Bell Cab Co. with Leon Brill, the company's president until his death a year ago.

Mr. Bralove was a member of the Adas Israel congregation. He was also a member of the American Legion and the Indian Springs Golf Club.

He is survived by two sons, William, jr., 1812 August dr., Silver Spring, Md. and Daniel, Baltimore, Md.; his wife, Eve B. Bralove, Layhill, Md., and one grandchild.

Funeral services will be held at the Bernard Danzansky Funeral Home, 3501 14th st. nw., Sunday at 1 p. m. Burial will be at Israel Cemetery.

Generoso Pope, Publisher Dies; Once Laborer

New York, April 28 (AP).—Generoso Pope, 59, publisher of the Italian language newspaper, Il Progresso, died today in Post Graduate Hospital.

Pope also was head of the Colonial Sand and Gravel Co.

The Italian-born publisher spearheaded the letters-to-Italy campaign which was credited with a major role in the defeat of the communists in Italy's 1948 elections. At Pope's instigation, many thousands of Italian-Americans wrote friends and relatives in Italy urging them to reject the Communist bid for power.

Active in Democratic politics and a former member of the party's national committee, Pope was a close friend of Mayor William O'Dwyer. He was treasurer of O'Dwyer's reelection campaign last fall and was host to the Mayor and Mrs. O'Dwyer during their most recent visit to Florida.

Pope was an outstanding example of the immigrant who made good. He came to the United state in 1904 with $4 in his pockets, working for a time as a hod-carrier. Eventually he became president of the company for which he had worked as a laborer, and he lived on Park ave.

Pope also was head of the Atlantic Broadcasting Co., which operates station WHOM. The station broadcasts in seven languages.

Surviving are his widow, Catherine; and three sons, Generoso, jr., editor of Il Progresso; Fortune, who is in charge of the radio station, and Anthony, executive vice president of the Colonial Sand and Gravel Co.

Rev. Manly Mumford Dies; Church Leader

Chicago, April 28 (AP).—The Rev. Manly J. Mumford, 80, retired Methodist church leader and minister for 45 years, died today in suburban Evanston.

Mr. Mumford was ordained in Kansas in 1893 and served pastorates there and in Illinois until his retirement in 1938. He was a member of the Rock River Conference, a governing body of the church.

Surviving include his wife, Emily, four sons, Manly, public relations director of the Borden Company; Maurice B., of Washington, D. C.; Milton C., a vice president of Marshall Field and Company, and Quale, of San Ysidro, Calif.

Richard Donnelly Dies; Printing Executive

Chicago, April 28 (AP).—Richard R. Donnelley, II, 49, a director of the R. R. Donnelley & Sons Company, died yesterday in a hospital after a short illness.

Donnelley was a grandson of the founder of the printing and publishing firm, which he had been associated with for more than 25 years.

E. L. Crandall, Photographer, Funeral Rites Set for Today

Mr. Crandall

Ernest L. Crandall, 79, 6611 Harlan pl. nw., a pioneer photographer in the Agriculture Department, died late Thursday after a long illness.

Mr. Crandall came to Washington in 1905 from Rutland, Vt., where he had been a reporter and photographer on the Rutland Herald. In 1925, 1926, and 1927 he was official photographer with an archeological expedition sent to Yucatan, Mexico, by the Carnegie Institution to study the ruins of the Maya temples. The expedition was headed by Dr. Sylvanus Morley.

Mr. Crandall retired as photographer for the Soil Conservation Service in 1940, after 35 years with the Agriculture Department. During that time many of his pictures became nationally famous, one, a photograph of the Capitol reflected in the rain on the Mall, taken on the day World War I was declared, was used for fund drives, and reproductions in many magazines and textbooks.

He is survived by a son, Robert M. Crandall; a daughter, Miss Dorothy A. Crandall of Mount Rainier, Md., and a sister, Miss K. Agnes Crandall of Brookfield, N. Y. He was a widower for nine years.

Mr. Crandall was a member of the Art Club of Washington, the American Genetic Association, the Potomac-Appalachian Trail Club, the Wildflower Preservation Society and was a founder of the Postal Photographers Society, and the Federal Photographers Society, and of the Takoma Park Horticultural Club.

Funeral services will be at the Hines' funeral home, 14th and Harvard sts. nw., Saturday at 3 p. m. Burial will be private.

Price Supports Hit By Farm Leaders

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

Farm price supports "take us back on the road to isolationism" and endanger foreign trade, a group of top-flight farm experts told Agriculture Secretary Charles F. Brannan yesterday.

The group, made up of prominent grain dealers, agricultural educators, farm organization officials, bankers, industrialists, etc., was named last November to the Foreign Agricultural Trade Policy Advisory Committee of the Office of Foreign Agricultural Relations.

Euch programs as price supports, the report stated, are "nationalistic," because:

1. They lead to "well-nigh irresistible" demands for trade barriers to keep products of other nations from stharing the "artificially high prices they provide."
2. They increase the difficulties of exporting because they maintain prices too much above world levels.
3. They foster export dumping which invites retaliation from other countries.
4. They require barriers to keep our products sold abroad at low prices from returning to our markets.
5. They encourage state trading instead of normal commercial operations.
6. They encourage "similar nationalistic programs for the expansion of uneconomic production in other countries to replace our products."

The report was prepared by the group Monday and Tuesday, after studying the program in committee since January 6.

Attending this week's meeting were Homer L. Brinkley, of the American Rice Growers Cooperative Association, Lake Charles, La.; E. F. Creekmore, of E. F. Creekmore and Co., cotton merchants, New Orleans; E. W. J. Hearty, New York City; Edward J. Grimes, vice president Cargill, Inc., grain dealers, Minneapolis; O. B. Jesness, head of Division of Agricultural Economics, University of Minnesota.

Paul D. Sanders, the Southern Planter, Richmond, Va.; Dean W. A. Schoenfeld, of the School of Agriculture, Oregon State College; R. E. Short, vice president, American Farm Bureau Federation, and Jesse W. Tapp, vice president, Bank of America, San Francisco.

The report was released yesterday. It followed a Department of Agriculture release showing that the Government on March 31, had $4,020,909,000 invested in crop supports.

Maragon Loses Move to Get Out of Jail

John Maragon, erstwhile White House habitue convicted of lying to a congressional committee, lost another bid to get out of jail yesterday and was told he probably would be sentenced Tuesday.

Federal Judge Jennings Bailey, the 82-year-old jurist who presided at his trial, overruled Maragon's motion for a new trial on Government charges that he lied to Senate "five percenters" investigators about his finances and employment last year.

He also refused to let the 55-year-old former Kansas City bootblack go free on bail. But he said he will consider that question again next week after he has received a report fro ma court probation officer.

Maragon, who was convicted Wednesday, faces a sentence of from 8 months to 20 years. He already had announced he would appeal to the higher courts if the motion for a new trial were denied. It is usual in such cases for the court to grant bail.

Holloway Leaves Naval Academy

Annapolis, Md., April 28 (AP).—With guns booming and midshipmen shouting farewells, the Naval Academy changed command at noon today.

Signal flags spelling "Well Done" flew from the station ship Reina Mercedes as Rear Admiral James L. Holloway, jr., relinquished the superintendency he has held for 40 months.

Vice Admiral Harry W. Hill, until today chairman of the Navy's general board, accepted command in a 20-minute ceremony on the steps of Bancroft Hall.

Some 1000 spectators witnessed the traditional Navy ritual.

One on the Aisle—

Ronald Colman Knows It All

By Richard L. Coe

ONE'S ENJOYMENT of "Champagne for Caesar" may well depend on one's abhorrence of radio. Since I loath 95 percent of radio, I relished most of the spoof on the giveaway programs now at the Palace.

Ronald Colman plays a man who knows all the answers and he makes tremble the foundations of a soap empire once he gets his erudition on the TV quiz show of Happy Hogan. The picture goes on too long and winds up too patly, but the whole notion of it is so wondrously vicious about the unctuous blatherbox that I almost wept for joy.

Not long ago, being ill, I was an enforced radio listener for a few days, and the shock of it is with me yet. Programs are far more inane than they were in my days as radio editor; the commercials are more noxious than vaudeville comics suggest, and beside the stuff you get on the air, the stuff of the silver screen becomes positively inspiring.

The reason I think "Champagne for Caesar" is pretty good is its accent on the whopping pretentions of the programs and their sponsors. There is, during the first part of the picture, the feel of a sharp knife slitting the throat of a beautiful witch. The relish both writers and players as they attack the network wizards is catching. So catching, that an immensely active lady of radio and I have busted what once was a beautiful friendship. She hated the picture as much as I enjoyed it.

"CHAMPAGNE FOR CAESAR." United Artists release produced for Harry M. Popkin by George Moskov. Story and screen play by Hans Jacoby and Fred Brady. Music by Dimitri Tiomkin. Directed by Richard Whorf. At the Palace.

Mr. Brown	George Meader

Beauregard Bottomley (Colman) hasn't much dough, but he's packed with knowledge. When Burnbridge Waters, head of a huge soap company, turns him down for a job for which Beauregard is eminently suited, Beauregard decides on vengence. He gets on the firm's TV giveaway program and pyramids his pile dangerously close to 40 million. Unfortunately, the movies' old stumbling block, True Love, comes along in the guise of Flame O'Neil (Celeste Holm), and eventually things wind up as always they do in the movies.

As Burnbridge Waters, Vincent Price plays with a riotous bitterness, a character far more full-blown than the sponsor Sidney Greenstreet acted in "The Hucksters." He lives in an ivory tower, browbeats his employes and embarks on a trance to another intellectual level when something displeases him. It's rather a wonderful notion and Price is grand.

Art Linkletter, of radio, does a nicely wry job as Happy Hogan, the horrible master of ceremonies who asks Beauregard his questions. You'll like his expression when he gets a phone call from Princeton, N. J.: "Yes, Dr. Einstein."

The story and screen play are by Hans Jacoby and Fred Brady, two men who've evidently been harboring violent hatreds. While it's too bad they couldn't stop their story sooner and ignore the screen traditions, they evidently had a swell time venting their spleen.

The title? Oh yes: it refers to Beauragard's parrot Caesar and its zest for the bubbly fizz.

"RICHARD"—no relation, but it does talk—a cousin of Parrot Caesar, will be doing a public broadcast this morning in front of the Palace between 10:30 and 11:30 . . . He's WWDC's talking parrot and will have the help of disc jockey Milton Q. Ford . . . The bird's fee for his week's work of publicizing the picture will be a sack of champagne-dipped birdseed.

"SCREEN WORLD" titles the latest adventure of picture-compiler Daniel Blum, whose "Theater World" has hit its fifth edition . . . As he's been doing for the plays each season, Blum presents several scenes from each picture of the year plus a cast and credit sheet . . . Greenburg, N. Y., publishes "Screen World," cloth bound, at $3.50, and it's in the local bookshops now . . . Anyone who relishes going over the pictures he's seen will enjoy this volume immensely, as well edited as Blum's older series and finely printed on slick paper . . . He promises to make this an annual and alaso reveals plans for a pictorial history of the American theater from 1900 to 1950 . . . In Blum has hit on a good idea, and you'll pass many dreamy hours with his latest, covering movies of 1949.

CHRISTOPHER FRY'S first American production, the short, "A Phoenix too Frequent," closes tonight after five New York performances . . . Evidently the production was at fault, for it was good reading; "Freight," a realistic modern drama, was the other one act of the program, and seems a poor choice . . . Nearly a year ago I wrote you of Fry's "The Lady's Not for Burning" from London, where the Gieland production was superb . . . I still think "The Lady" will be a sensation when he brings it to Boston and New York next fall . . . Washington is by-passed; why, Mr. Langner? . . . It got its first American review here and we have a theater.

THE MONTGOMERY PLAYERS tonight present Terence Rattigan's "The Winslow Boy" at Leland Junior High School, to be repeated Monday and Tuesday evenings . . . In the cast of Rattigan's fine play, under the direction of Jane Plummer Rice and Hillary Knappy, will be Mrs. Knapp, Marshall Smith, William Vance and George Grizzard.

"LUCKY DAY," Catholic University's annual musical, gets its second performance in the campus theater tonight, with two weeks' run ahead . . . It's by Leo Brady, with music from Edward Cashman . . . Barbara Cole has staged the dances, with Virginia Bradley, Rickie Rudel, Meredith Schoonover and Louis Camuti in the leads . . . to be reviewed next week.

IN BRIEF: "Brigadoon" is set for three weeks at the Gayety, opening May 22 . . . The Bryn Mawr College Chorus sings Elizabethan music this afternoon at 3 and tonight at 8:30 in the Elizabethan theater of the Folger Library . . . The Recreation Department's "Folk Festival" winds up tonight at Central High auditorium at 8:15 . . . International Student House offers a "Chaplin Festival" tonight at 8:30 at 1825 R st.

Memorable Concert Ends Music Series

By Paul Hume
Post Reporter

With how beautiful a concert the Library of Congress ended its current series last night.

Clifford Curzon was guest pianist with the Budapest Quartet. We have not heard any of these artists surpass their accomplishments on the occasion. The music was most familiar: Mozart's G Minor Quartet, with piano; Brahms' Quintet, and Dvorak's Dumka Quintet.

As the procession of melody and sonority passed by, now slowly, now in vigorous dance rhythms, the genius of Mozart stood out once again. Who else can match him for constancy of melodic inspiration mingled with love for opposite instrumental coloring and formal balance?

Brahms was the academician of the program, with his quintet warming in the middle movements, but sounding padded in the extremes, for all its great climaxes. And then Dvorak—writing for the same texture, the same harmonies. But singing new melodies through familiar voices, and giving new clothing to well-known figures.

The artists were sensitively matched to the music. If we have heard the Brahms with more storm, as the mighty phrases are wrenched from the piano, we have not heard it more nobly played. Curzon is a patrician stylist, moving through Mozart, Brahms, and Dvorak with illuminating differences in touch and phrasing for each.

His Mozart was of the impeccable kind that keeps open a place for human tenderness; his account of the opening of the last movement of the Brahms, and the first part of the Dumka movement of the Dvorak marked him as a rare artist.

And through it all, the quartet, both as ensemble and soloists, shone with the same fine light as their gifted guest. It was a memorable finale, making us impatient for fall, and more.

FTC Has No Right to Question Anahist's Safety, Royall Says

Former Secretary of the Army Kenneth C. Royall argued yesterday that the Federal Trade Commission has no right to question the safety of antihistimine cold pills already cleared for over-the-counter sale by the U. S. Food and Drug Administration.

Royall, now a privately practicing attorney, appeared at FTC hearing as counsel for the Anahist and three other leading antihistimine pill manufacturers charging it is "false and misleading" for them to advertise that the preparations will effectively check colds without harmful side actions.

Royall stressed that the Food and Drug Administration has licensed sale of antihistimines without prescription, after finding that they are safe if taken as directed on labels.

He said the Anahist company has "already sustained perjury" because of the FTC's "inference" that it is unsafe, and demanded that the charge be stricken from the complaint before the hearing proceeds any further. FTC Trial Examiner Earl J. Kolb dismissed the dismissal motion as premature.

Royall said his client firm has "considerable evidence" that its preparation is safe.

"We have records of 12 million tablets prescribed in 20 months by physicians and 11 million prescriptions by doctors of the same dosage in syrup," he said.

Singapore Plot Fails

Singapore (Saturday) April 29 (U.P.).—Gov. Sir Franklin Grimson narrowly escaped death Friday when a homemade bomb arched out of a crowd at a boxing stadium and struck him on the knee. But the bomb itself broke into four pieces and fell harmlessly to the ground.

London Keeps Ban

London, April 28 (U.P.).—The government today announced a three-month extension of the ban on political parades in London, effectively prohibiting the customary Communist procession on May Day.

The ban was originally imposed to prevent clashes between leftists and supporters of prewar British Fascist Leader Sir Oswald Mosley.

N. Y. Students Riot 4th Day at City Hall

New York, April 28 (AP).—Thousands of shouting, shoving high school pupils clashed repeatedly with police today in a fourth day of rioting that brought expressions of alarm from civic leaders.

Some 5000 hookey-playing teenagers surged through downtown Foley Square in wave after wave. Mounted and foot policemen drove them off after four hours of disorders.

Threats were voiced that a new demonstration will start Saturday despite efforts by authorities to head it off. The four days of student demonstrations are unparalleled in New York's history.

The students are demanding higher pay for teachers and protesting a virtual halt in after-school activities. Superintendent of Schools William Jansen has charged "subversive elements" are egging the youngsters on.

Today's Communist Daily Worker praised the demonstrators' "discipline and solidarity" and accused the police of invoking "terror" methods against them.

Federal Judge John C. Knox commented that photographs of the jostling mobs "will bring joy to the inmates of the Kremlin."

High French Aide Slain in Saigon

Saigon, French Indo-China, April 28 (U.P.).—Marcel Bazin, 45, veteran French Colonial administrator, was fatally shot today on his way to his office. He died in hospital.

Bazin was deputy chief of the security services in southern Viet Nam. Directed attempts to suppress the Communist-led Viet Minh terrorists and they called several months ago for his assassination.

Fightin' Moo(d)

Balky Bossy (Berserk?) Bolts, Battles

Andover, Mass., April 28 (AP).—How now, black cow, why do you act so bad?

That's what farmer Arthur Tisbert would like to ask his cow, a shining black Scots lassie of a cow, once gentle and mild.

But he can't get near enough to ask even her name, which he doesn't know. She won't come out of a tangled woodlot where since last Monday she's been roaming like a tiger.

She's pedigreed, pregnant, perturbed.

She treed three men and a boy when they tried to capture her. Now, if she see anyone she bolts into matted brush 8 feet high where "you can't take a horse and you can't throw a rope."

The only hope, says an expert, is "twilight sleep." Doped grain will trick her into that he says.

The expert is Joseph Haswell of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. With Tisbert and his neighbors, Haswell is puzzled by what made the cow bolt, bellowing through four barbed wire fences and one wooden fence.

"Could have been motherhood, but it could have been hornets."

The cow-in-the-bush is a 120-pound registered and pedigreed bossy of the Aberdeen Angus breed. The calf she's expecting will be her first.

Haswell explained they don't want to shoot her because "she's so valuable." And Tisbert thinks the expected calf should be a prize baby.

The Glee Club of Mount Mercy College, Pittsburgh, Pa., will give a concert tonight at 8 in Gaston Hall, Georgetown University.

Winchester Apple Festival Comes to End

By Bill Brinkley
Post Reporter

Winchester, Va., April 28.—To a cacophony of swoons and groans from thousands of bobby-soxers, their idol Van Johnson was knighted "Van the Man, Apple Jack of All the Jills" here today to climax the Shenandoah Apple Blossom Festival.

Later a mighty crowd of 100,000, seven times this town's population, filled all the ground space and lapped up into the trees to see the movie star lead a parade as mammoth and magnificent as the neighboring Blue Ridge.

Touching a dress sword spiked with a shining apple to the kneeling actor's left shoulder, Anne Hadley, stepdaughter of Vice President Alben Barkley, inducted him into the Apple peerage.

Prologuing all this, the springtime pageant with a cast of 2000 school children was run off again in the bowl.

Then the parade. As with everything about the Winchester festival, it was of absolutely top-notch quality. It's either that these people know how to do it or that a parade of this kind and spirit is just no longer seen in large cities.

It was a big parade, about three hours to pass. Scores of the best bands and drum and bugle corps from several States marched in it. The flower of Virginia's famed military academy marching-cadet corps passed in review down the old streets. The floats were magnificent, reflecting the most careful attention to detail.

The festival honors two categories of beauty, that of the apple and that of women. Both types were out in profusion and from several floats one hurled the other to the crowd.

The crowd under that sun beaming out of blue-vaulted sky was an utterly happy and warm-hearted one. No better place to be in April than the Shenandoah Valley in apple-festival time.

White House Gets Science Bill

The Senate yesterday passed and sent to the White House a compromise bill to establish the long-delayed National Science Foundation.

President Truman's approval seemed assured. The legislation is the result of six years' effort to draft a foundation for "pure science" studies which would satisfy scientists, Congress and the Administration.

The bill authorizes $500,000 for 1951 and 15 million dollars for every year thereafter for fellowships, scholarships and grants.

President Truman vetoed a science foundation bill in 1948 but the "compromise" legislation worked out in a Senate-House conference appeared likely to satisfy his earlier objections.

Friend Of Children

It is a pleasure in these days when Government servants are so readily reviled to learn that Katherine Lenroot, chief of the Children's Bureau in the Federal Security Agency, has been given the 1950 Survey award for her "imaginative and constructive contribution to social work." Miss Lenroot has served the Children's Bureau for 35 years. She became its assistant chief in 1922 and succeeded Grace Abbott as chief in 1934. Under her leadership, the bureau has done invaluable research work in child problems and in community services for children, has pressed for maternal and child-health services and has won effective legislation limiting child labor.

Miss Lenroot's work must have brought to her many times over its own reward. She has carried it forward, as The Survey award notes, with "unselfishness and humility" and with a "sensitive and skillful approach to the many problems that arise in administering a complex program." She has made the Children's Bureau an effective and benevolent guardian of the Nation's most priceless asset. A very great number of Americans will find gratification in the recognition and honor accorded her.

Japan's Future

Peace treaties in the new era of total war waged by coalitions and fought to unconditional surrender consist of agreements among Allies. The prostrated enemy has nothing to do but await the verdict. For five years this has been Japan's lot, and she has seen nothing but wrangling among the victors, with no prospect of any inter-Allied understanding. The alternative is a separate agreement with America, as the chief protagonist, and other like-minded nations, leaving Japan to make a peace as best she can with intransigents. Yet the non-Communist Party oppositionists in Japan to the Yoshida (Liberal) government insist on an all-in peace treaty, based upon the denial of bases in the Japanese islands, and have gathered together their forces for an all-out assault on the Yoshida government.

These oppositionists, who are Socialists, Social Democrats, and Cooperators, know very well the price of any allied agreement on a peace treaty which included China and Soviet Russia among the signatories. The two latter—if Communist China holds the same views on the subject as Nationalist China—want terms which would make the peace truly harsh. China demands reparations and Russia insists on similar servitudes which would keep Japan forever enslaved. This, as we say, the Japanese well know, and the only interpretation of the new demand from the non-Communist left is, you've guessed it, the approach of elections, scheduled for June and affecting the upper house, known as the House of Councillors. The opposition is merely in search of a platform for an appeal to the electorate.

What the opposition manifesto likewise signifies is that Premier Yoshida's position is weakening. He is not helped by the temporary effects of the stabilization of the disorderly finances of Japan which was supervised by Mr. Joseph M. Dodge. Unemployment has been rising, prices falling, and incentive curbed by high taxes. Fiscal purification in ordinary circumstances would enable Japan to sell her goods in world markets and prosper. The markets are available in Asiatic countries, and, if this were a sane world, cheap consumer goods from Japan in exchange for Asia's raw materials could make a contribution to Asiatic tranquillity, and complement a Point IV program. But the world isn't sane. The raw material areas want to industrialize, they have tariffs even on things they are never likely to produce economically, their bogey is Japanese competition. So deflation in Japan instead of being a boon to Asia is for the time being backfiring in the face of Japan. Doubtless that is the reason that Mr. Hayato Ikeda, Japan's courageous Minister of Finance and the first cabinet minister to arrive here, is in Washington.

Most Japanese know the stakes at issue in the quest for liberation from the leading strings of Allied occupation. They know that nobody is more anxious to establish peace with Japan than the Americans. What safeguards for security purposes are necessary will no doubt be forthcoming, in spite of the hostility that is expressed in the current manifesto against the cession of bases as part of the peace treaty. This demand is the logical outcome of the too complete demilitarization of Japan under the constitution. It has produced a call for neutralization in the world struggle—to get Japan acknowledged as a sort of Asiatic Switzerland. General MacArthur sowed this idea about an Asiatic Switzerland, but that was in calmer days, and defenseless Japan no doubt would nowadays wonder whence was coming its protection if there were such a thing as a complete American withdrawal. Japan—the destruction of which destroyed the balance of power in Asia—has a role to retrieve in Asia which she exercised before she turned militarist, and the United States would be blind to its own world interests if it did not realize it and help the Japanese to achieve it. The dynamics of Japan can be useful in the tranquillization of Asia.

Rents: A Local Issue

In many parts of the country the supply of housing has caught up with demand and many rental units have already been decontrolled. Consequently the problem of housing shortages has ceased to be a matter of national concern justifying extension of Federal rent controls. However, it continues to be a matter of serious concern to communities like Washington where acute shortages of rental housing would put tenants at the mercy of landlords, if controls were to be immediately removed.

That is why the District Commissioners are recommending an extension of the control law applicable to the District for another year. Their request is based on the findings of District Rent Administrator Cogswell, who points out that acute shortages of many types of housing still exist. No one acquainted with local conditions needs to be told that the supply of rental accommodation for low and moderate income families is grossly inadequate, or that the rents demanded for most of the new elevator-type apartments, not subject to controls, are, as Mr. Cogswell says, "so high as to be entirely beyond the reach of persons of average income." Moreover, these recently constructed apartments are not suited for families; they are intended for single individuals or childless couples.

Under existing conditions the sudden removal of rent controls would inevitably result in sharp increases in rentals, since many landlords, like other sellers of goods and services, are going to charge whatever the traffic will bear. And the traffic will stand the most outrageous kind of exactions when a tenant has to choose between life in the wide open spaces and payment of whatever rent increases his landlord demands. We don't mean to imply that all landlords would take advantage of the removal of rent controls to engage in merciless profiteering. However, in these situations the law of the market generally prevails. The unhappy experiences of a number of communities that prematurely abandoned rent controls prove the need for protection against sudden and excessive rent increases so long as housing shortages exist.

Decisions as to the retention of local rent controls should be based on a study of conditions prevailing in the areas concerned regardless of whether Federal rent controls are prolonged or abandoned. That is as true for the District of Columbia as it is for other communities, although the District, being a ward of Congress, operates its controls under a Federal law. Yet Representative Harris, chairman of the House Judiciary Subcommittee that is considering the question of rent control, says it will be difficult to continue local rent control unless Federal control is extended, since Congress might be suspected of trying to protect its own members while voting to remove protection from the rest of the country.

That sorry explanation disregards the fact that rent control was established for the protection of all the residents of this city. It ignores the claim of those residents to the same kind of protection against excessive rental increases that State and local governments can and in many cases have already provided for other communities where housing is in short supply.

Expert Investigators

Ordinarily we should be very skeptical of any plan to take out of the hands of Congress any part of the investigative function. Talk of shifting the investigative function elsewhere is too often associated with a desire to whitewash an ugly set of facts. Yet the idea of relying upon impartial specialists for some of the fact-finding that now devolves upon Congress is making a wider appeal. Senator Lodge recently suggested that the sifting of fact from Senator McCarthy's wild charges be turned over to an impartial body outside of Congress. More recently Senator Ives put in the Congressional Record, a discussion of the same basic subject by Prof. Lindsay Rogers of Columbia University.

Professor Rogers suggests a statute modeled on the British Tribunals of Inquiry Act of 1921. Such a law would enable Congress to set up an investigating commission at any time by concurrent resolution not requiring approval by the President. That commission would have authority to compel the attendance of witnesses, force them to produce documents, and so forth. In case of resistance it could bring contempt proceedings, as does a court of congressional committee. Of course, the nature of such inquiries would be specifically outlined by Congress. We have no doubt that a commission of this kind properly selected and adequately staffed could do a better job of getting at the facts behind the McCarthy imbroglio than the Tydings Committee has done.

The chief difficulty arises in selecting such a commission. To avoid bias, Professor Rogers would have congressional commissions of inquiry appointed by the Chief Justice of the United States. But this might have the unfortunate effect of dragging the court itself into the controversy. It is not to be supposed that Congress would entrust such appointments to the President, since many of its most important investigations are into loose practices or corruption in the executive branch. Apparently the appointment of such investigators would have to be left to a congressional group, say the Speaker, the president pro tempore of the Senate and the chairman and ranking minority member of the committee chiefly concerned.

It is not to be supposed, moreover, that all investigations could be turned over to commissions of this sort. Many of the inquiries that congressional committees undertake are so closely associated with the legislative process that their very purpose—the education of legislators—would be defeated by turning them over to an outside body. Certainly these investigations should continue to be made by congressional standing committees under rules of fair procedure prescribed by law. But inquiries that are not directly related to the legislative process could well be assigned to a carefully selected nonpartisan commission. The result would be to take controversial side issues out of the tinderbox of politics and subject them to scrutiny on the basis of ascertainable facts. Congressmen would be saved from a colossal waste of time and the public from an inestimable amount of confusion. We would still have to expect irresponsible antics from some legislators, but they would have less access to sounding boards.

Gamblers' Masquerade

Asking Frank Costello to give the low-down on gambling is like asking the Grand Master to broadcast the lodge's innermost secrets. Can anyone seriously suppose that Mr. Costello, who, despite his pose of respectability, has been dubbed the slot machine and bookmaking king, has really told the Senate Interstate Commerce Subcommittee the facts about interstate gambling? Does a card expert tell novices how he expects to win? The same considerations apply to Messrs. Frank Erickson, who, however, testified pretty candidly yesterday, and Joe Adonis, who will appear shortly. Do these gentlemen, who operate very profitably around the edges of the law, have the slightest interest in seeing the law tightened?

The whole performance before the Interstate Commerce Subcommittee is absurd, but it is worse than that. There is a great danger that these headline-grabbing antics will distract attention from the need for a thorough behind-the-scenes investigation of interstate crime as proposed in the Kefauver resolution. Some persons may be led to assume, from the gamblers' testimony, that there is no such thing as a crime syndicate, or that if there is, nothing can be done about it. What is worse is the creation of an atmosphere antipathetic to a quiet on-the-spot investigation of the Kefauver type—this would not satisfy the appetite for sensationalism which the current publicity is whetting.

Mr. Costello made one good point when he said that the only way to stop bookmaking was to stop horse racing. We have no doubt that even if horse racing somehow were abolished, the bookies would find some other "sport" to leech onto. The Kefauver investigation is not put forward in the hope of stopping all gambling or of obtaining new prohibition-type laws. It is intended to get the facts on how extensively the crime syndicates, including the illegal gambling kings, have corrupted law enforcement and created problems which communities by themselves are impotent to deal with. Only after such an investigation can there be the sort of Federal legislation that will help local law enforcement agencies without infringing upon them.

Senate Majority Leader Lucas asserts that he has not been delaying the Kefauver resolution. He is reported to be afraid of Senator Donnell's threat to make a two-day speech. Mr. Donnell's ire was aroused, of course, by the decision of the Democratic Policy Committee—of which Mr. Lucas is a member—which had the effect of maneuvering him out of a place on the investigating committee. If that partisan trick cannot be corrected, the least Mr. Lucas can do is to take up the resolution before the Senate considers the controversial FEPC bill which is sure to provoke a filibuster.

Extend The Draft

It is encouraging that both President Truman and Chairman Vinson of the House Armed Services Committee have urged retention of the selective service law. Mr. Vinson previously had looked with disfavor upon an extension of the draft beyond June 24—an attitude explainable in part by the weak case which the armed forces made in their own behalf. The issue is not, of course, that conscription is needed right now to meet armed forces quotas; draftees inducted under the current law have long since been released, and there is no present intention of calling more. The importance of the draft is more symbolic than immediately practical. Some time would be saved in an emergency, to be sure, by having the law on the books and selective service machinery in readiness. But the real point is that the draft law signifies—to our European allies as well as to the Russians—our determination to fulfill our military commitments. Now is no time to be presenting any appearance of weakness.

I CAME TO THE CHURCHYARD

I came to the churchyard
And quiet was deep
In that last hostel
Where all come to sleep;

Beyond the wide gateway,
Past yew trees that gave Their darkness to noontide,
I came to your grave.

Alone I came breathing
April's warm breath.
And love, too, was quiet
And deeper than death.

Kohlberg And Hart

I was very much interested in reading the article entitled "Man Behind the Man Who Is Accusing Lattimore" by Alfred Friendly in your issue of April 23.

Although I feel that many of the statements contained in said article are very unfair to Mr. Alfred Kohlberg I would like very much to call your attention to one very serious omission in the article which intentionally or otherwise was extremely unfair to Mr. Kohlberg.

Mr. Friendly made a point of the fact that Mr. Kohlberg in October, 1946, founded the magazine Plain Talk. This is, of course true and it is also a well known fact that Mr. Kohlberg has been actively interested in the publication of Plain Talk from that date up to the present time.

Subsequently in this article Mr. Friendly emphasizes the fact that last October Mr. Kohlberg was guest at a dinner sponsored by the National Economic Council, an organization run by Merwin K. Hart.

A very important fact which was omitted by Mr. Friendly in his article but which I feel your readers have a right to know is that in the February, 1950, issue of Plain Talk the lead article was a very forthright and well documented attack on the same Merwin K. Hart based on his anti-Semitic writings. The article was entitled "The Strange Case of Merwin K. Hart.

Leesburg's College

The April 23 article on Leesburg, gave splendid recognition to one of the most interesting small towns in Virginia.

I would like to call to your attention, however, two unfortunate errors and two omissions relative to this picture-story. The author of the story quotes me as saying that Loudoun Community College is being organized for the "boys and girls who can't afford to go away to college." While the college will undoubtedly benefit this group, there are many other categories of young men and women who will be served by the college program to whom the matter of expense is not a primary concern.

The author also said that I had "served for a time as a Presbyterian minister." This was an unfortunate expression that has proved most embarassing. Though having resigned from the pastorate of the Leesburg Presbyterian Church in order to assume the presidency of Loudoun Community College, I am still an active minister in the Presbyterian Church, U. S. and fully intend to remain an active minister.

In regard to Leesburg's "distinguished neighbors," the author failed to include in her list both Arthur Godfrey and Frank E. Mason. MONROE BUSH. JR.

Hagerty's Appointment

The present fulminations by Senator Fulbright against the appointment of John J. Hagerty as special assistant to the board of directors of the Reconstruction Finance Corp. are of public interest. Unfortunately, Senator Fulbright has brought accusations before he has thoroughly investigated the situation.

In the latter part of 1948 the Waltham Watch Co. made application to the Boston office of the RFC for a loan. Mr. Hagerty, as manager of the Boston RFC office, refused the application based upon a credit report. The company then filed a petition under Chapter 10 of the bankruptcy law. Thereafter the company was operated by court-appointed trustees and Mr. Hagerty was appointed agent.

Disbursement of the loan was made through Mr. Hagerty's successor. The loan to Waltham was not made during Mr. Hagerty's period as manager of the Boston office of the RFC and the plan upon which the loan was granted was the plan of the court-appointed trustees for whom Mr. Hagerty served as agent from April, 1949, until September 23, 1949, when he was elected president of the Waltham Co.

Upon the approved release of the company from the trusteeship by the court and the Boston RFC office, an action which Mr. Hagerty disapproved because of a weakness in the capital structure of the company, the company was on its own. Because of this critical shortage of working capital, Mr. Hagerty told the court and the Boston RFC office that he didn't feel the organization could hold out and maintain itself beyond February of 1950 unless a further loan was forthcoming. His thinking proved right and on February 5, 1950, Waltham Watch Co., after a century of operations, was forced to close its doors.

With the exception of the period between April, 1949, and February, 1950, Mr. Hagerty spent some 24 years in Government service in posts of responsibility.

Welfare Fund Cut

I am very disturbed to learn that the local Board of Public Welfare has been forced to operate on a budget based on living costs of 1946 with a 12 percent previous cut and a new 8 percent cut to be applied in May. Rapidly increasing unemployment and increased numbers of indigents have spread the allotments to needy families so thin it amounts to starvation figures.

If Commissioner Mason is ill, it would seem that someone ought to take over his responsibility, or public opinion ought to be informed in order to put a fire under Congress for action in this matter.

Capital Parks

Our local parks do more than any one feature to give beauty and individuality to our Nation's Capital, which distinguish it from ugly big commercial cities.

Whenever I have had occasion to communicate with the offices of the National Capital Parks I have invariably been met with most courteous and ready response on the part of everyone from secretaries and phone operators to heads of departments.

It is regrettable, however, that so often requests for improvements in local parks in the form of additional planting, made by taxpaying property owners and residents, are met with the reply that nothing can be done because there are no funds available to stock an adequate supply of trees and shrubbery to replace those that die or are destroyed.

For some reason unlimited funds seem always available for any Government or District project calling for vast amounts of concrete or cement. But penny-pinching starts with replacements and maintenance of natural beauties.

Ape-Men As Slaves

Greetings from an anthropologist to Dr. Britton. His artifically-bred ape (story published April 25) raises more serious problems than just that of the scientific question as to whether the higher apes and man can mate and reproduce.

I presume that Dr. Britton's wish for a race of ape-men slaves is to free the human race from the drudgery of toil and labor, so as to better itself culturally, intellectually, scientifically, and otherwise. Except that that I am afraid it would turn out to be otherwise. Is not the learned scientist well read-up on his history to know that civilizations fell because man turned over all of his work to slaves, and idled away his days, so that he finally turned soft, and more or less disintegrated, without the help of the atom bomb? The Roman civilization is an excellent example.

EVA GABRIELLE BIELOUSS.
Washington.

I wish to take exception to the new theory of Professor Britton in which he states man may be artificially mated to apes to produce a race of ape-man slaves. This theory would have to be based on the one that man was descended from apes, which is rejected by most men, who believe that God created Adam and Eve from whom followed the human race.

MRS. ANNE R. BATTLEY.
Arlington.

As a member of the Christian church I am appalled at the announcement that there is a proposal under consideration by American scientists to breed a race of "slave people" who will be part man and part ape, taking advantage of the present-day knowledge of artificial insemination. To think that science should now be leading us to further degradation than we have already reached with our modern methods of warfare, or further degradation than some of the peoples of the earth now endure, seems to remove all hope of our ever becoming more civilized or more human. Aldous Huxley's idea about breeding set types of men was nauseating enough.

MARIAN OAKLEAF.
Washington.

It is said that one Southern Legislature seriously considered the proposal to import apes to pick cotton, etc., after the Civil War, but one legislator killed it. He said: "By the time we got them trained the dam Yankees would come down and free them." But Professor Britton is going one better.

On second thought, considering that "civilized" man has become such an artificial, synthetic product—he can't walk without wheels, can't imagine the scene as he reads the story but must see a movie, takes a pill to sleep, a cocktail to be hospitable, a cigarette to relax and coffee to wake up—perhaps a little fresh ape blood would inject some life in the zombie.

On third thought, though, one cannot tell exactly what heredity may do.

I fancy the group of young ape-men clustered about the door. One foot (I mean, lower hand) clutches the porch or hand rail while a long, hairy arm reaches in and snitches Daddy's cigarettes. Between puffs and smoke rings they regard the work distastefully and grunt, "Let the Old Man do it!"

Escaping The H-Bomb

By Malvina Lindsay

Clack's Diversions

NO ONE need get hysterical about the latest weapon—nerve gases. Nor worry about death rays, hydrogen or atomic bombs, germ warfare, or the imminency of the crucial month of May in the cold war. Getting mixed up in a brawl of some kind—political, religious, economic, club, neighborhood, family—will give complete immunity from national and international concerns.

Mr. Jitters McDervish Clack, promotion director of the National Non-Thinkers League, who arrived yesterday by private helicopter, is organizing this technique throughout the Nation. "See how it's working in Congress!" he exclaimed gleefully above the singing commercials on his pocket radio and the shrieks of a horror mystery on his portable video.

Things are going big in the thought-prevention business, Mr. Clack told a press conference. "Naturally I take credit for the racket—I mean the refined radio entertainment you're getting on your streetcars and buses."

"Television programs also are helping people keep their minds off things." In fact, mass media generally, Mr. Clack reported, was showing a concentration on the trivial and controversial that was "most gratifying."

"But don't you think," asked a science reporter, "that people ought to be doing some thinking about the H-bomb—if they could ever get any information on it?"

"Why should they worry? Even if the Russians get it, think what we've got! Why this new gas the Army Chemical Corps dug up, they say, can break the will of an army to resist."

"BUT WHAT if the Russians get a better gas?"

"How can they—unless we give 'em the secret? Anyway people don't want to think about such things. They don't want to think, period."

"That's why you're in the noise business?" asked a financial editor.

"That's my cruder method. I still rely a lot on cocktail parties—the bigger, noisy ones. But we need something stronger now—something to get us wrought up."

Mr. Clack put in a call for Chicago on his walkie-talkie. "I must set up my applause and heckling committees before the Democrats get there for their rally," he explained. "Unless they get to fighting among themselves they won't have any fun. Or they'll be poking their nose into big things."

"I take it," broke in a political pundit, "that your chief technique for thought liquidation is discord."

"Well, people like a row—that is, a contest."

"But isn't that weakening the American people at a time of national peril?"

"Well—you see, it upsets a lot of people to think—or rather to think that they ought to think. And what fun would they have out of their political campaign this fall if it wasn't a dogfight?"

"BUT THE ISSUES—"

"That's just what we've got to keep out of it! Get people to fighting over who's to blame for something done yesterday or last year or 10 years ago and they don't have to worry about what they ought to do today or tomorrow about the H-Bomb, Russia, depression, strikes, anything."

"But some people want to think about the H-bomb," protested a reporter. "Ten national organizations have asked for a President's commission to consider all weapons of mass destruction and report to the people."

"Those visionaries don't count. I tell you the only thing the people want to do about the H-bomb is throw rocks at each other."

"What are you going to do in Washington?

"For one thing," said Mr. Clack, as he shifted his video program to a beachwear fashion show, "I'm still hoping to stage a big public hearing on Hollywood morals to take over when the McCarthy show ends. I'm also conferring with my agents here about rows on the religious, labor and foreign fronts. You see my work's international."

"Has it ever occurred to you," asked a woman reporter, "that something might happen some day—well, out of what we call the blue—that would be so overwhelming that people of this country, even of this planet, would forget all this petty squabbling you're promoting—forget everything that divides one human being from another?"

"Sister," exclaimed Mr. Clack. "If the H-bomb couldn't do that, what could?"

Israel Expansion

Mr. S. D. Shepard (letter published April 19) is surprised that he has not heard any protests from Christian countries against England sending arms to the Arabs. He apparently does not know that the Jews in Israel are now in self-defense proclaiming that it is necessary for them to invade additional Arab-held lands, and they are demanding that the United States send them arms in the same breath that they demand England stop sending arms to the Arabs. This has the familar ring of Hitler's proclamations each time he paved the way for the "liberation" of one more country. F. S. WILSON.

Subversive Loopholes

By Marquis Childs

Tightened Present Laws Adequate

FROM ALL the talk about the dangers of Communist infiltration, the bystander might get the idea that Congress was doing something about it. But the record shows that almost nothing has been done to close loopholes in the laws on espionage and foreign agents.

Childs

Politics has taken over here, as with the formulation of a constructive foreign policy. The net result is political gas, some of it hot and some of it stale.

For more than two years the Department of Justice has been urging a series of changes in the Voorhis Act, the Smith Act, the Alien Registration Act and the immigration laws. More than a year ago the department recommended amendments to the espionage laws so that persons trained in espionage and sabotage could be brought within the Foreign Agents Registration Act.

The Justice Department also urged changes in the law which would give greater assistance to the FBI and military intelligence in obtaining admissible evidence against security violators. Other changes would give the military additional assistance in the protection of military facilities from sabotage and accidental dangers.

NONE OF these steps has been taken. The House six weeks ago passed with only two dissenting votes a bill covering certain internal security measures as recommended by a committee made up of representatives of military and naval intelligence and the FBI.

The Senate, where the talk about communism has been loudest and angriest, shows no signs of getting around to these measures. A bill providing a Fair Employment Practices Commission is to come up shortly. That will precipitate an immediate Southern filibuster.

Senate leaders think now that this filibuster will last only about a week, when a move to stop the debate by applying cloture is defeated. But there is no guarantee the filibuster will end then. So the prospects for action on such rudimentary steps against espionage do not seem to be good.

The politics of security may focus on the highly controversial Mundt-Nixon bill. How many of Senator Mundt's Republican colleagues will support him is a question.

The bill gives to a "subversive activities board" arbitrary power of a far-reaching nature. The board, to be appointed by the President, would determine what were "subversive" organizations in the categories of "Communist political organization" or "Communist front." The definitions in the bill are so sweeping that the board would have wide discretion in determining which organizations were to be put on the list and the members stigmatized in such a way as to endanger their status and livelihood.

IT IS NOT hard to see where this would lead. The members of a board appointed by the President would reflect his political views. The kind of organizations declared "subversive" would change with changes in the political climate.

In a time of reaction, with timidity and fear rampant, the tendency would be to shut down on any organization that did not conform with the narrowest interpretation of "loyalty." This could work both ways. In the event of a swing to the left, a President might seek to discipline organizations and individuals on the right and force them into conformity.

The Department of Justice has repeatedly opposed such a measure in the various forms in which it has come before Congress. At one point a Senate committee called on three distinguished attorneys with a broad background in constitutional law — Seth Richardson, John W. Davis and Charles Evans Hughes, jr.—for their views. They all reported adversely.

The Mundt-Nixon bill clearly would invest Government with a power that goes beyond the American tradition. If there were an imminent and present danger, Congress might be justified in abandoning fundamental guarantees incorporated in the Constitution.

Such a step is certainly not justified until every effort has been made to close loopholes in present laws. For example, present laws dealing with aliens suspected of being subversive are inadequate. There are now more than 3000 undesirable aliens who cannot be deported to their countries of origin because the governments of those countries will not readmit them. Let's try a few repairs and improvements before we turn our backs on a system that has worked so long and so well.

way of making a more closely knit alliance can be done within the framework of the Charter as we have already shown in two instances—the North Atlantic Treaty and the Rio pact."

Dulles said that, since he had not read or heard Mr. Hoover's speech, he wanted it expressly understood that he was not commenting on the former President's remarks.

Former Senator Cooper of Kentucky, who, like Dulles, has recently been made a consultant of the State Department, told the Overseas Writers at a luncheon that he was against splitting the U. N.

Assistant Secretary of State John D. Hickerson had this to say: "The United Nations represents the cornerstone of our foreign policy. We want to strengthen it. We have played our full part; we have never walked out, and we have never missed a meeting."

George Calls It Inevitable

Senator George (D., Ga.) said former President Hoover's idea of revamping the U. N. to exclude Russia and her satellites was "inevitable."

"Ultimately we will have to come to that," George said. "I have felt such a move is inevitable since Russia demonstrated she will not keep her agreements."

Senator Hickenlooper (R., Iowa) said the present stalemate should cause Congress to give "profound and immediate consideration" to the Hoover suggestion.

"Russia has been approached from every angle in the interests of peace and continues to block every effort to attain it," he said. "While it would be desirable for all of the nations to cooperate in the U. N., Russia's continual obstruction prevents free nations from going ahead."

Senator Kefauver (D., Tenn.) said he agreed with Mr. Hoover's proposal for a united anti-Communist front, but thought the U. N. ought to be retained as a vehicle of contact with the Russians.

Erickson Admits He Breaks Law in Daily Handling of Bets

Angeles racing news distributor; Mrs. Ralph Martinelli, proprietor of the Yonkers (N. Y.) Daily Times, and George Fingold, former Massachusetts assistant attorney general.

Erickson said he does not use any racing wire service in his betting operations, but operates with the information available from newspapers and radio of horse races and other sporting events. All the others testified on angles of the Nation-wide Continental Press Service, the racing wire network.

On numerous occasions, Erickson declined to answer questions, standing on his constitutional right to refuse on grounds that answers might tend to incriminate him. After one series of such answers, Tobey disgustedly shouted that the hearing was becoming a "farce" and that "we'd better change the Constitution." Then he added it would save Erickson's hoarse throat if "you got a sign saying 'I refuse to answer because of my constitutional privileges.'" and just held it up.

McGuire explained that Erickson was willing to answer questions except those which might involve him with local authorities.

Denies Being "Stooge"

Erickson denied that he was a "stooge" for Costello or anyone else or that he was "playing footie footie" with Costello. The words were Tobey's. He said he had been a bookie for 30 years, graduating to that from a job as a restaurant busboy.

Asked if he thought "protection" was necessary in order to do busines, he replied:

"Well, I've never had no protection."

And later on he said:

"I never gave anything to any public official anywhere."

Senator Tobey at one point read Erickson a moral lecture. He brought out the fact that Erickson has two children and three grandchildren and then he asked the gambler how he "reconciled his "flaunting" of the law with his duties as an American parent.

"I can't explain it," croaked Erickson.

No Answer for Question

Tobey persisted. He wanted to know if Erickson, when alone, hadn't ever felt that "this is wrong" and said to himself "I hate this hellish business."

Erickson reddened, smiled and finally managed to say:

"I have no answer for that."

Like other gamblers who have testified, Erickson said he doubted very much if the proposed anti-gambling laws would do much good. He did admit he did most of his business by phone and that if he were denied that service it would stop him for a while at least. Likewise, he said if newspapers stopped printing odds and prices paid on horse races it would "put 99 percent of the bookies out of business for a while.

After Erickson had described himself as "in business for myself," McFarland asked:

"You do violate the law?"

Erickson replied:

"Yes."

Highlights of other testimony yesterday:

Mayor Kemp said that Charles Binaggio, the murdered Kansas City Democratic official, had been reported by police back in 1947 as a reputed owner of a race wire service, the local outlet of the Continental network.

Kemp said he didn't know who killed Binaggio, but that there's a "widely held theory" he was murdered because he was "unable" to deliver on a promise to open up the city to gambling.

The mayor was caustic in his references to Gov. Forrest Smith of Missouri who, under State law, controls the city's police force through a police board which he appoints. When McFarland said he was glad to know that "the law enforcement of your State hasn't broken down" Kemp quickly said:

"The law enforcement of my city hasn't broken down."

Brophy denied charges made before the committee by Los Angeles police officials that he was Continental's representative there. He said he operates his own perfectly legal race service within the State, using information obtained by methods he would not disclose publicly.

Brophy had with him as his attorney, Nicholas J. Chase of Washington. Brophy said reports that he paid $2500 a month for "protection" were both false and ridiculous.

She Supplies Racing News

Mrs. Martinelli, protesting complaints by New York police to the committee about her Yonkers paper, told Senators her paper furnishes racing news to some "50 or 60" subscribers who pay about $20 a week each. She also said any subscriber could call up and get race results.

Fingold recounted the story of Continental's outlets in Massachusetts. He said Philip Elwell, whom he described as Continental's agent in New England, was still operating.

Meanwhile, the House Commerce Committee yesterday heard Representative Harris (D., Ark.) declare the antislot machine bill passed by the Senate might get "a lot of good honest businessmen" in trouble because it might also ban games of "skill," juke boxes, bingo and punch boards.

Bill for Defense Building Held In Committee

The House Rules Committee yesterday held up—temporarily, at least—a bill for "urgent" military construuction because of objections to provisions for family housing.

The 689-million?dollar program is a top-priority measure urged by the Defense Department to build up military bases in the United States, in Alaska and in the Far Pacific.

But Chairman Adolph J. Sabath (D., Ill.), said there are "a lot" of features in the housing provisions that "we don't think are necessary."

He said the committee will take another look at the proposed legislation, probably next Tuesday.

The committee overrode recommendations of Chairman Carl Vinson (D., Ga.) of the Armed Services Committee which approved the bill after weeks of hearings. Vinson asked the "traffic cop" Rules group to clear the bill for floor debate and let members fight out the housing argument then.

Representative Leo E. Allen (R., Ill.), ranking minority member of the committee, complained that the bill as drawn would let "privates with fourth-grade education have homes costing up to $33,000."

Under terms of the construction program, maximum cost for housing would be $16,500 a unit in the United States, and $33,000 outside this country.

Most of the contemplated housing is of the apartment type.

More than 100 million dollars of the funds for the proposed program would be spent in Alaska, where Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower recently said immediate expansion of United States defenses is necessary.

FREDERICK FIELD

Fields Testifies On Lattimore

danger of self-incrimination seemed remote, Field refused to reply. He explained that an answer might draw him into a line of questioning where such a danger would arise. He preferred, therefore, to stop it before it got started.

It was only after much cajolery by Senator Tydings (D., Md.), subcommittee chairman, that Field agreed to answer a question on whether he believed John S. Service, Haldore Hanson and John Carter Vincent were Communists. Tydings explained that if Field declined to answer, his action would leave all sorts of "inferences, favorable and unfavorable."

Whereupon Field said that to the best of his knowledge and belief they were not Communists.

But he then refused, as he had refused before, to answer a question of Hickenlooper on whether he even knew the three men. And earlier, Hickenlooper had got Field to admit that he was not in a position to know whether a man was a Communist.

The names of Hanson, Service and Vincent have figured in Senator McCarthy's (R., Wis.) charges of infestation of the State Department by Communists. McCarthy has accused the first two directly of pro-Communist actions.

Hanson is head of the department's technical staff on the Point Four program, Service is a foreign service officer, and Vincent, formerly in the Far East division, is now American Minister to Switzerland.

In testifying about Lattimore, Field said he had not seen him, he thought, for five or six years. To other questions, Field said he and Lattimore were largely in disagreement on their political opinions and notions of foreign policy.

Their association had centered around the Institute of Pacific Relations, of which Field was at one time secretary and later trustee, until he was asked to resign in 1947. Lattimore was editor of the IPR's magazine, Pacific Affairs.

The subcommittee scheduled a hearing for 2:30 p. m. Monday at which Freda Utley is to testify. Miss Utley, former member of the British Communist Party, said yesterday she will demonstrate, principally from Lattimore's writings, that he followed the Communist line.

Tuesday morning Lattimore is scheduled to be heard in what Tydings hopes will be the final session in his case.

Meantime John J. Huber, the mysteriously missing witness from the probe, told a newspaper friend yesterday he will come to Washington late next week to "tell all I know."

Marines Land On 'Enemy' Isle

Camp Lejeune, N. C., April 28 (AP).—Wave after wave of attacking United States Marines established two beachheads on enemy-held "San Lejeune Island" today.

Led by Maj. Gen. Franklin A. Hart, 6000 assault troops hit the mythical island off the northwest coast of Africa minutes after helicopters rescued important "allied" prisoners of war from a camp on the island.

The assault maneuvers, the climax of "Operation Crossover," were designed to test theories on amphibious operations developed since the Okinawa landings of World War II and the exploding of the first atomic bomb.

General Hart carved out his beachheads about 2000 yards apart.

"Even if an atomic bomber got through," he said, "it shouldn't disrupt invasion plans."

His 10 assault waves landed simultaneously on each beach. All were "dry," a Marine expression meaning they were well protected during the critical landing period.

Before General Hart's troops landed, six destroyers, six rocket ships, two light cruisers and one heavy cruiser theoretically gave the beaches a thorough pulverizing.

Overhead, friendly aircraft gained control of the skies and strafed the beach areas while inland jet fighters dropped fire bombs which wrought wide damage. One of the biggest obstacles facing invading marines was the crossing of a 100-yard canal about 500 yards inland.

eral effort with criticism of various details.

Congestion on Airstrip

Gen. Mark Clark, commander of Army Field Forces and wartime head of the Fifth Army in Italy, said there was "too much congestion" on the airstrip after the first Douglas C-73s bearing unloading crews and equipment were parked close together for approximately 45 minutes each while the supplies were brought out.

"We must pay more attention to dispersal with an eye to the A-bomb," said Clark, making it apparent he felt the unloading operation was too slow. "Lightnin'" Joe Collins evidently was worrying also about the danger of air attack in such a situation. He wondered about the lack of any apparent air cover at the moment.

"I don't want to appear critical of either the Air Force or the Transportation Corps," he told reporters. "The whole idea of such maneuvers is to learn from our mistakes."

Watches Things Go Wrong

Collins pointed up his remark by calling attention to a pile of 75-pound barracks bags filled with blankets, extra clothing, etc., of the base personnel brought in by the C-74s.

"That's what I mean," he said. "Next time that won't happen. We'll carry ammunition instead."

Brig. Gen. Paul F. Yount, in charge of logistics of the operation, agreed.

"I'm standing here watching things go wrong," he said. "They'll be corrected hour by hour."

Both Collins and Clark stressed the need of continuous, coordinated training between ground and air elements to make airborne operations work.

Clark said the "critical thing" is to give paratroopers the "means to repulse enemy tanks, mortars, and artillery as soon as they land. This means better anti-tank guns, he said, and better close air support.

Air Force Aid Praised

Praising the cooperation his forces have received from the aid force, Clark said greater emphasis is needed on tactical aviation. Not only is there not enough of it, he declared, but neither the Army nor the Air Force are sure they have the "right planes for it today." He did not elaborate.

Maj. Gen. James (Slim Jim) Gavin, one of the Army's chief airborne experts now a member of the weapons system evaluation group, declared the air drops were "pretty good" but felt more joint training with USAF troop carrier groups and airborne units is necessary.

"Troop carrier lacks electronics, navigators and is too busy flying milk cans," he commented.

Lieut. Gen. John I. Hull, Rear Admiral W. S. Parsons and other members of the WSEG, also were interested spectators.

The evaluation group has the key airborne question under study.

"D-Day" opened here today with the drop of the 187th Regimental Combat Team of the Eleventh Airborne exactly at H-hour. The 505th Regimental Combat Team of the Eighty-second made its jump in the afternoon. Each is led by a former West Point football star, Lieut. Cols. Harvey J. Jablonsky and Thomas J. H. Trapnell.

Quickly Assembled Weapons

Both units assembled quickly after the jump, got their weapons into operation and moved to attack like well-drilled outfits. Two of the 187th's 105 howitzers and a number of the 505th's troops landed in the woods.

One of the Eleventh's paratroopers apparently was knocked out of the back door of his packet transport and plummeted to his death without pulling the ripcord of his parachute. A trooper of the Eighty-second was killed in the afternoon before the hundreds of spectators when his chute failed to open.

Undersecretary of Defense Stephen Early, Air Secretary Thomas K. Finletter, Undersecretary of the Navy Dan Kimball, and Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, USAF Chief of Staff, were among the other top brass present. Despite the delay in unloading of the C-74s, the airlift was pouring in supplies tonight undaunted by a heavy hail storm.

Rabbi Cahn, who was associated with the late Rabbi Stephen S. Wise at Free Synagogue, will speak on "The Mid-Century Challenge to Reform Judaism."

Representative Adolph Sabath (D., Ill.), will speak at a luncheon meeting at 12:30 Sunday p.m. on "Liberal Judaism in the Contemporary World."

Dr. Maurice N. Eisendrath, president of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, will speak at a breakfast at 9 a.m. Sunday.

Sunday morning workshops on religious education, membership, and work of the sisterhoods will be held.

The Union of American Hebrew Congregations is the central body of Reform Judaism and represents more than 400 congregations in the United States and Canada.

Present for the meetings here will be representatives of congregations in Maryland, Virginia, Deleware, North and South Carolina and the District.

To Celebrate

National City Church Is Free Of Mortgage

National City Christian Church at Thomas Circle celebrates liquidation of its mortgage with a series of events this weekend.

The final installment on the church's debt, which stodd at $640,000 in 1931, was paid on April 28.

Disciples of Christ leaders will bring greetings to the church at a victory banquet in the social hall, 1306 Vermont ave. nw., at 6:30 p. m. today.

Two morning services Sunday will celebrate paying off of the mortgage. At 9:45 a. m. John Rogers of Tulsa, Okla., will speak and at 10:50 a. m. the Rev. Dr. J. Warren Hastings, pastor, will talk on "Except the Lord Build."

Mortgage burning ceremonies will be at 3 p. m. Sunday, with Dr. Lin C. Cartwright, editor of the Christian Evangelist, as speaker.

Among others who will participate in the ceremony will be Dr. Raphael Harwood Miller, former pastor, Mrs. Earle Wilfley, widow of the Rev. Earle Wilfley, pastor of the church when the building was erected, and Oreon E. Scott, chairman of the church board of trustees.

Mr. Kopf to Give Series On 7 Ages of Man

Shakespeare's seven ages of man from "As You Like It" will form the theme for a series of sermons to be given by the Rev. Carl Heath Kopf at First Congregational Church, 10th and G sts. nw., beginning at 11 a. m. Sunday.

He will open the series with a sermon on "The Infant." In succeeding weeks he will speak on "Unwillingly to School," "The Lover," "The Bubble Reputation," "The Justice," "A World Too Wide," and "Sans Everything."

Canteen To Observe Third Anniversary

St. John's Canteen, a non-sectarian recreational project at St. John's Church, 3240 O st. nw., will celebrate its third anniversary at 7 p. m. today.

The canteen is open to young people 18 to 30 and offers a weekly program of dancing and games in the church parish hall.

DRIVE FOR FUNDS OPENED—Proposed $150,000 addition to St. Mary's Episcopal Church, 2609 N. Glebe rd., Arlington, Va. Present structure extends from the tree beside the walk to the right. Fund-raising drive opened at a campaign dinner at the church last night. Construction starts in the fall

Convocation Clergy to Pick Leaders

Clergy of the Northern Convocation of the Episcopal Diocese of Washington will meet Wednesday at 4 p. m. at St. Philip's Church, Laurel, Md.

During the afternoon they will elect a dean, vice dean, secretary and treasurer of the convocation.

The Rev. William Curtis Draper, diocesan missioner, Thomas E. Robertson, vice president of the executive council of the diocese, and Mrs. Harold C. Kelleran, director of the diocesan department of Christian education, will speak.

After dinner, the Right Rev. Angus Dun, Bishop of Washington, and Leroy Pumphrey, majority leader of the Maryland House of Delegates, will speak.

The Northern Convocation includes 30 missions, churches and separate congregations in Chevy Chase, Silver Spring, Olney, Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties, Md. It meets twice a year.

Mormons to Hear Utah Representative

Representative Walter K. Granger (D., Utah), will speak today at 8 p. m. at the weekly program of the Utah Centennial Chorus at the Washington chapel of the Latter Day Saints, 16th st. and Columbia rd. nw.

The Congressman will speak in connection with the showing of a film "Valley of Triumph" which shows the growth of the State of Utah since it was settled by the Mormons more than 100 years ago.

Shure To Play Suite

"Lyric Washington," a piano suite by R. Dean Shure, will be played by Isabelle Mitchell at 6 p. m. Sunday at Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church, 900 Massachusetts ave. nw.

Church Music Week Opens Here Monday

A one-week school of church music begins Monday at Calvary Baptist Church, 8th and H sts. nw., and will be climaxed by a choral festival at the Sylvan Theater.

The school is sponsored by the Washington Federation of Churches. Its leader will be Dr. John Finley Williamson, director of the Westminster Choir College, Princeton, N. J.

For choral conductors, Dr. Williamson will offer classes in conducting on Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 6:30 and 8 p. m.

On Tuesday and Thursday at 7:30 p. m. Dr. Williamson will work with choirs, leading them in singing hymns and anthems in preparation for the festival Sunday.

The Sylvan Theater festival will be at 5 p. m. next Sunday on the grounds of the Washington Monument. It is one of the events planned by the churches for their part in the city's sesquicentennial celebration.

Ministers will have an opportunity to discuss church music with Dr. Williamson on Tuesday at a luncheon at the federation, 1751 N st. nw., at 12:15 p. m.

Dr. Williamson founded Westminster Choir College, which gives training in choral techniques, in 1926, and has been its president since then.

Silver Spring Church Plans Family Service

Strengthening the family will be the theme of services and meetings at Calvary Lutheran Church, Silver Spring, Md., during May.

The Rev. George W. Hoyer, pastor of the church, will speak on "Life's Cornerstone—the Family" at 11 a. m. Sunday. Adult and youth groups will stress the need for family devotions by means of a film strip "At Home with God."

Episcopalians Open Church Building Drive

Members of St. Mary's Episcopal Church, 2609 North Glebe rd., Arlington, this week began a drive for funds for a $150,000 addition to the church.

The Right Rev. Frederick D. Goodwin, bishop of the Diocese of Virginia, officially opened the fund-raising campaign at a dinner at the church last night.

Immediate goal of the drive is $100,000. Construction of the addition, which will double the present capacity of the church, will begin early in the fall.

Building plans call for extending the church along its main axis, retaining its present lines. The addition will double the seating capacity in the nave.

It will also provide eight Sunday school rooms, a common room, an enlarged parish hall, office space, and a study for the rector.

Men of the parish are organizing a St. Joseph's carpenter guild to help in actual construction work in their spare time.

Expansion of the church is necessary because of the increase in adult membership from 38 when the church was organized in 1926 to 460 today. Enrollment of children is now nearly 400.

Ten of the charter members of the church still attend services, including Dr. E. E. Blackwell, 4717 North 26th st., senior warden of St. Mary's since it was founded.

The Rev. George F. Tittman has been rector of the church since 1942, except for two years during the war when he served as a Navy chaplain.

Christ Methodist Having Fund Drive

A hundred volunteers are expected to call on members of Christ Methodist Church, Arlington, Sunday, to tell them of the church's $85,000 building program.

Funds raised will be used to expand the auditorium, add a tower, and build an annex for Sunday school and organizational activities. During the 11 a. m. service Sunday members will make their cash contributions and pledges for the drive. Those unable to attend will be visited during the afternoon.

Group Studies Modern Man, Christianity

During the war a small group of men and women concerned with the troubled state of the world met together to discuss Christianity's meaning for modern man.

Once every two weeks they went to the home of the Rev. Dr. A. T. Mollegen of the Virginia Theological Seminary to talk things over informally.

Sunday night, that same group, swelled to more than 200 persons, will hear a lecture by Dr. Paul J. Tillich of Union Theological Seminary on "Protestantism and the World Crisis." The meeting will be at Satterlee Hall, Massachusetts and Wisconsin ave., nw.

After meeting during 1946 in a private house organizers of the meetings decided to open them to the public and hold them in the library of the Washington Cathedral.

When that first public meeting at the cathedral was announced they expected that 40 would attend—110 came.

The group, which calls itself "Christianity and Modern Man" has met at the cathedral for the past three years. Meetings consist of a formal talk by a member of the faculty of the seminary, followed by an open discussion.

The current series of four lectures on Protestantism and the world crisis is the second to be offered this year. On Monday, May 8, Dr. Eduard Heimann, author of "Freedom and Order" will speak, and on Monday, May 15, Dr. Reinhold Niebuhr lead the discussion.

Members of these discussion groups come from different backgrounds, economically, religiously, and racially.

A small charge is made for the series to pay expenses of the speakers and to pay for transcripts of the talks.

Cancer Society Hears Plan for New Hospital

Maj. Gen. Carl R. Gray, jr., Administrator for Veteran Affairs, spoke yesterday at a luncheon of the Washington division of the American Cancer Society. The luncheon marked the half-way point of the 1950 cancer fund drive.

General Gray said the Chicago Research Hospital will be "nothing more or less than a cancer hospital." He emphasized the need for cancer research and said the 500-bed hospital "will include within its walls the last word in medicine."

R. C. Wilson, associate campaign chairman, announced the District total so far in the fund drive is $49,269, about 25 percent of the $200,000 goal.

Division chairmen made the following reports on contributions to date: Federal employes, $14,807.87; Business, $7,723.93; D. C. employes, $834.22; clubs and organizations, $314.00; special gifts, $5,282.21; coin containers, $1,201.90; special sponsor group, $14,782.00; women's division, $2,705.11; professional division, $1,556.50; and miscellaneous, $1,551.43.

Sunday CHURCH EVENTS

The Rev. Harry L. Bell will return to his pulpit at Columbia Heights Christian Church, 1435 Park rd. nw., to preach at 10:50 a. m. on "The Life that Shines in the Darkness." He has been visiting in Kentucky since the death of his wife last month.

Nelson T. Huffman will direct the Bridgewater College Glee Club in a concert at Washington City Church of the Brethren, 4th st. and North Carolina ave. se., at 8 p. m. Admission is free, but a collection will be taken up. The glee club last year appeared at Constitution Hall.

Dr. Harold H. Hughes, district superintendent of the Roanoke District of the Virginia Annual Conference of the Methodist Church, will preach at 9:30 and 11 a m. Sunday at Arlington Methodist Church, Glebe rd. and South 8th st.

The Right Rev. G. Ashton Oldham, retired Bishop of Albany, will preach at 11 a. m. at St. John's Episcopal Church, Lafayette Square. He retired last year after 20 years as head of the Albany diocese.

Combined choirs will sing Gabriel Faure's Requiem at the quarterly musical service at the Lutheran Church of the Reformation, 212 East Capitol st., at 8 p. m. The Rev. Dr. Oscar F. Blackwelder, pastor, will speak briefly on "Music As A Builder of Personality."

Galbraith A.M.E. Zion Church's senior choir will sing a concert at 6 p.m. at Mount Zion Methodist Church, 1334 29th st. nw.

Past presidents of the training union will be honored at a meeting of the group at 6:30 p. m. at the Chiesa del Redentore, Italian Baptist Church, 1200 Kirby st. nw.

"Faith of Our Fathers," a one-act religious play, will be given at 7 p. m. at Albright Memorial Church, 4th and Rittenhouse sts. nw.

A new auditorium to be used as a temporary church for St. Bernard's Roman Catholic parish, Riverdale, Md., will be blessed at 3:30 p. m. by the Most Rev. John M. McNamara, auxiliary bishop of Washington.

Cleveland Park Congregational Church, 3400 Lowell st. nw., will celebrate the thirty-second anniversary of its founding at the 11 a. m. service. Dr. Stanley U. North of New York will speak on "The Foundation Stone of the Church."

Novena Begins At Catholic U. Friday Night

A novena in honor of Mary Immaculate, patroness of America, will begin at the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception, Catholic University, on Friday and continue through May 13.

The Rev. Patrick J. O'Connor, acting director of the shrine, said he hoped the nine evenings of prayer will become an annual event.

Each evening the service will begin at 7:45 p. m. with a program of hymns to the Blessed Mother sung by the choir. At 8 p. m. Father O'Connor will lead recitation of the novena prayer.

The Rosary, prayer for the Holy Year, and Litany of the Blessed Mother will precede the 15-minute sermon. Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament will conclude the evening devotions.

Sermons on the nine evenings will be given by members of the Uuiversity faculty.

Episcopal Youth To Gather Today At St. Alban's

Young people from the Episcopal diocese of Washington will gather for diocesan youth day at 3:30 p. m. today at Satterlee Hall, St. Alban's Church, Wisconsin and Massachusetts aves. nw.

Several hundred boys and girls from the 90 parishes and congregations in the diocese will join in the afternoon program of recreation and discussion of youth problems and will see the film "Prejudice".

Following a box supper at 5:30 p. m., the Rev. John R. Anschutz, rector of Christ Church, Georgetown, will lead community singing.

The Very Rev. John Wallace Suter, dean of the Washington Cathedral, will lead a service for the young people at 7:15 in Bethleham Chapel. The service is in preparation for the Nation-wide youth corporate communion to be held in all Episcopal churches Sunday morning.

8 Groups to Sing Sunday in Festival Of Youth Choirs

Eight choirs will participate in a youth choir festival at 4:30 p. m. Sunday at First Baptist Church, 16th and O sts. nw.

More than 200 choristers from 5 to 18 years of age will join in the program, which is sponsored by the District of Columbia Federation of Music Clubs.

Each of the choirs will present a group of numbers under its own conductor, according to Harwood V. Hall, minister of music at First Baptist Church and church music chairman of the federation.

Choirs participating will be from Foundry Methodist, Ninth Street Christian, Woodside Methodist, Mount Vernon Place Methodist, Takoma Park and Sligo Seventh-Day Adventist, First Congregational and First Baptist churches.

VA Sponsors Study Of War Psychos

By N. S. Haseltine
Post Reporter

The Veterans Administration is sponsoring medical studies, some of which may prevent induction of "poor risks" into the armed services of the future, it was disclosed yesterday.

One of these, a Washington-directed study of mental crack-ups during World War II, seeks to develop examining standards to pick out potential mental cases before they get into uniform, it was said.

In World War II, it was pointed out, some 400,000 persons were discharged from the service for varying degrees of mental instability, largely because there was too little known of conditions predisposing to psychoneuroses.

3 Other Answers Sought

Three other answers are sought in the VA-sponsored follow-up studies of major disabilities suffered by members of the armed forces during the war. One is to see if there is a better way to take care of servicemen with such disabilities in future wars.

The second is to determine what kind of a patient load can be expected in VA hospitals in the future. And finally, the studies are directed at finding out ways to improve the care of patients with the disabilities and diseases who are now in VA hospitals.

The study on mental factors is being made through a project whose funds are administered by George Washington University, and whose activities are directed by Dr. Norman Brill, psychiatrist, of this city.

Follow-up of Two Veterans

The project, underwritten by VA up to $50,000, consists of a follow-up study of 1000 veterans, selected at random, from the lists of those admitted to service hospitals for psychoneurotic care during the war. They include combat casualties and noncombat casualties alike.

Virtually all of the 1000 have already been contacted and interviewed by psychiatrists, Dr. Brill said yesterday. They were traced to their homes in nearly every State, and in many foreign lands.

And they were found in all types of conditions; some still in institutions for mental illness, some holding down responsible jobs. One, when he was located, was serving as mayor of a Canadian town.

200 Psychiatrists in Project

Psychiatrists, some 200 are involved in the project, conduct standardized interviews of the subjects to learn all the factors of their lives, from birth to the present.

The information, when tabulated and correlated, may serve as a guide to the psychiatric, induction interviews of the future, VA officials said. The project, it was estimated, will be completed by the year's end.

Other disabling conditions under study in 23 medical schools and four hospitals throughout the Nation include tropical diseases, and the possibilities of the spread of such diseases in this country from infections brought home by returned servicemen.

Beat a Retreat

German Reds Conciliate in Church Row

Berlin, April 28 (AP).—Germany's Communist-dominated government tonight executed a strategic retreat from open warfare against the Protestant and Catholic faiths.

After a six-hour conference of religious leaders with top officials of the Soviet Zone, a conciliatory joint communique was issued promising continued negotiations.

"Representatives of the churches gave assurances that the reconstruction of the German people's life and peace and freedom is their urgent desire," the communique said.

"Representatives of the government gave assurance that the churches can fullfill their work on the basis of the constitution as it exists until now."

Millions of western Germans are aroused by Communist restrictions on religious and civil liberties in the Russian zone, and the eastern government apparently feels it is not strong enough to embark on police action such as has been carried on by the Red-controlled governments of Czechoslovakia and Hungary.

Senate Will Start Voting on Aid Bill In Another Week

After a week of sporadic debate, the Senate agreed yesterday to start voting next Friday on the $3,372,450,000 foreign aid bill.

Despite the fact that President Truman had put the aid measure at the top of his "must" list of legislation, his Senate lieutenants have not been able to hurry action on the bill which the House passed last month.

Chairman Connally (D., Tex.) of the Foreign Relations Committee finally won unanimous consent late yesterday to fix the vote deadline. But it took almost an hour to round up enough members to get the 49 Senators required to transact business.

Before the vote decision was reached, Senator Millikin (R., Colo.) raised objections to including a 45 million dollar item for President Truman's "point four" program in the single package foreign aid bill.

Millikin said that since it was a long range affair it should be kept separate from the Marshall Plan which is scheduled to end in 1952.

$350,000 Made By Discoverer Of Streptomycin

Trenton, N. J., April 28 (U.P.).—The lawyer for Dr. Selman A. Waksman, the man who discovered streptomycin, said today the scientist made $350,000 on the drug before giving up his rights to it.

The attorney, Russell E. Watson of New Brunswick, N. J., is defending Waksman in a suit for a share of royalties from the discovery.

Watson said that out of the $350,000, Waksman paid $189,000 in taxes and $30,000 for research and come out with an annual return of about $13,000 for the 11 years' work he spent on streptomycin.

Dr. Albert Schatz of Brooklyn, who is using Waksman, claims he helped discover the drug. He charged he signed away any rights he might have because Waksman threatened to force him out of the profession if he refused. Waksman contended Schatz was merely one of many sutdents who worked on the project. Waksman turned over the product and its royalties to Rutgers University for a research foundation.

No date has been set for the trial.

Exhibit of Ecclesiastical Art To Open Sunday at Arts Club

Rev. Lindsay O. Duvall inspects figure in ecclesiastical exhibit

An exhibit of American ecclesiastical art, including paintings, sculpture, embroidery and ceramics, will open Sunday at 5 p. m. at the Arts Club, 2017 I st. nw.

For the past two weeks the collection of works by artists from Washington, Cleveland and New York has been on display at Ascension and St. Agnes Episcopal Church, 12th st. and Massachusetts ave. nw.

Hult Wilson, a member of Ascension and St. Agnes, arranged for the exhibit and plans to have it shown at other churches in Washington.

His interest in bringing the ecclesiastical art here was aroused after reading a story in The Washington Post about similar displays in New York.

Wilson is making a study of American church art and has been investigating the art and architecture of Washington churches recently.

One of the most spectacular works in the show is a carved statue of Jehovah by the Dutch-born artist, Van Loen. It was made from a tree trunk the artist found in Washington Square in New York.

Five Washington artists are represented in the show.

Three ceramic figures, the work of Hazel Detwiler, were loaned for the exhibit by the Washington Cathedral.

Miss Clare Fontanini, assistant professor of art at the Catholic University, submitted a sculptured head of St. Francis.

Miss Lucy V. Mackrille, author of a book on religious embroidery, is represented by three works—a mitre made for the Episcopal bishop of Washington, a richly embroidered funeral pall, and a delicate head of Christ for a cape, or cloak.

Also shown are a series of water colors of Washington churches by Betty Baker and two oil paintings of the Washington Cathedral by Katherine B. Hobbs.

Shimmying Electrons Hit Target Quicker

Three Chicago scientists yesterday reported a new twist to atom-busting, the use of swaying electron bullets.

The side-bending electrons, traveling at their usual 186,000 miles a second, permit powerful bombardments of much shorter duration than the straight, middle-of-the-road variety, they told scientists here in annual conference of the American Physical Society.

Prof. Gail D. Adams, of the University of Chicago, reported the new process for generating X-rays for atom-busting with the world's largest betatron. Co-authors of the report include Prof. Clark S. Robinson and Prof. Donald W. Kerst, inventor of the betatron.

They said the new technique should prove valuable for further study of mesons, those particles within the atom believed responsible for keeping its titantic force pocketed.

In the betatron, electrons are made to spin in an ever-widening circle which finally hits the target material, it was explained. In the Illinois instrument, the electrons are also made to sway from side to side, smashing into the target in a far shorter interval.

Legalized Hiring Hall Is Favored By Senate Group

A Senate Labor subcommittee recommended yesterday that Congress legalize maritime halls because they have been "instrumental in curing evils traditional" to the shipping industry.

Miss Lucy V. Mackrille, author of a book on religious embroidery, is represented by three works—a mitre made for the Episcopal bishop of Washington, a richly embroidered funeral pall, and a delicate head of Christ for a cape, or cloak.

The subcommittee issued a report based on a lengthy series of hearings which now goes to the full Labor Committee. Republican Senators Robert A. Taft (Ohio), and Forrest Donnell (Mo., dissented and may issue a minority report later.

Maritime unions have been operating under contracts which permit the continuance of union-operated hiring halls, but a recent Supreme Court decision would force them to be abandoned.

Expert Warns

Optimism Over VD Held Premature

Today's optimism over the conquest of venereal diseases is "premature," specialists in venereal disease control were warned here yesterday.

The appraisal of the Nation's VD situation was given by Dr. E. Gurney Clark, of Columbia University medical faculty, who is also president of the American Venereal Disease Association.

"The optimistic view that venereal disease control is imminent pervades medical and public health circles," Clark declared. "Such a view is premature."

He pointed out that three million Americans today show positive evidence of syphilis. The problem of control thus remains one of "first magnitude," he said.

Clark estimated that last year 150,000 persons were infected with syphilis, but that only 70,000 cases were reported. He added that the disease sent 66,000 persons to mental institutions, killed 13,000 and infected prenatally 14,000 infants.

He spoke in the closing-day symposium of some 200 venereal-disease specialists, research workers and venereal-disease experts at the twelfth annual session of the AVDA.

Earlier, the association's annual $250 award to the young scientist performing the most conspicuous research on venereal disease was presented to Dr. Robert A. Nelson, 27-year-old research fellow at Johns Hopkins University. He was cited for his feat in identifying a specific antibody to syphilis in humans who contracted the disease.

Since that work, Dr. Nelson and his associates have devised a specific test for the disease, which has proved far more accurate than the Wassermann and other blood tests. Although his test is considered ideal for determining the validity of a syphilis vaccine, Dr. Nelson reported yesterday, no such vaccines are known.

The search for a vaccine is continuing, he said, but is hampered by the fact that the disease organism cannot be grown in laboratory test tubes.

Hecht's Plans To Raze Units For Parking

Space for more than 200 cars a day will be added to the parking-short downtown area next month by the Hecht Co. department store.

The new spaces will become available through razing of Hecht buildings at 506 and 508 F st. and 518-20 6th st. new., now used for stock storage, display, sign painting and carpentry shops.

These services will be housed in a four-story building purchased by the Hecht Co. from the Call Carl Co. at 614 H st. nw. The building is directly behind the Hecht service building at 613 G st. nw. and plans call for operating the two structures as a single unit.

The Hecht Co. plans to erect another parking garage on the site of the razed properties, Charles B. Dulcan, sr., vice president and general manager, announced yesterday. The present four-level garage is used by more than a 1000 cars a day.

Dulcan said the purchase of the Call Carl building was "another step in the long-range expansion program" of the firm. Steadily increasing sales in the present Washington and Silver Spring stores plus preparations for the opening of a six-million-dollar store in Arlington required additional stock and service facilities, Dulcan explained.

Another expansion now under way is in the Silver Spring store where two additional floors will be completed by August. The new Virginia store is planned for the fall of 1951.

Error Feared, So Parking Lot Bid Is Held Up

District Auditor Arthur R. Pilkerton announced he has held up action on bids opened yesterday on the lease of a District-owned parking lot because of an apparent error on the high bid.

Pilkerton said the high bid on the lot at the southeast corner of 6th st. and Indiana ave. nw., was submitted by Gerald Carroll, 3824 Colorado ave. nw.

Carroll offered $83.733.12 for a 19-month lease or $4407 a month, Pilkerton said. But Carroll's check accompanying the bid, supposed to be equivalent to one month's rent, was made out for only $3488.88, Pilkerton stated.

Pilkerton said he has asked for an explanation from Carroll and will take no further action until he consults with the District Commissioners Monday. Carroll could not be reached last night for comment.

Truman Plans Speech At Casper on May 9

President Truman's first 1950 election cross-country itinerary was whipped into a final shape today with the selection of Casper, Wyo., as a substitute speaking point for the more remote Kortes Dam.

The President will speak at Casper on May 9 on a nine-day trip starting May 7 that will take him across 16 States between here and the northwest Pacific Coast.

There will be eight set speeches in all and more than 50 rear platform appearances from his special train.

Wife Manages to Crack 90, Gene's Patience at Same Time

By Gene Sarazen

MY WIFE MARY took up golf just before we married, and with her characteristic aptitude for doing thingh right, she was able to break 100 in short order.

I remember vividly when she made her next big stride. It was 1927 and the month was June, mid-June; I was returning from the Open at Oakmont in the vary lowest spirits.

SARAZEN

"Gene, do you know what I've just done?" Mary greeted me effusively at Pennsylvania Station. "I broke 90 yesterday.

I looked at her solemnly. "Know what I did yesterday?" I answered bitterly. "I lost the Open Championship by a stroke. And you have the impudence and the lack of consideration to tell me that you broke 90 yesterday. Where's the porter?"

With that one exception, which I am nearly ready to forgive, Mary has been exceptionally understanding about my golf, in its sickness and in its health. There have never been any post-mortems in the Sarazen household. We talked a lot of golf but always in terms of what's-coming-up-next.

Bucs Win, 4-3 On Kiner's 2-RunHomer

Pittsburgh, April 28 (AP).—Ralph Kiner smacked a seventh-inning two-run homer today to bring the Pittsburgh Pirates a 4-3 decision over St. Louis before 10,102 paying fans.

It was Kiner's third home run of the season.

Buc First Baseman Johnny Hopp had a perfect day with a double and three singles fo rhis four appearances at the plate. Hopp also scored two of the Pirates runs.

Bill Werle, who was lifted for a pinch hitter in the seventh, got credit for the win. He gave up seven hits and ran into trouble only in the first and fifth innings. Gerry Staley was charged with the loss.

Maryland Cup Race Today

Worthington Valley, Md., April 28—Sixteen of the Nation's top timber horses have been named for fifty-fourth running of the famous Maryland Hunt Cup classic on the rolling estate of J. W. Y. Martin here tomorrow.

The classic of the country's timber races will be run over a 4-mile stiff post-and-rail course of 22 obstacles ranging from three to five feet in height.

Heading the strong field is Alvin Untermyer's Done Sleeping who has accounted for the Virginia Gold Cup and the Grand National Point-to-Point this year and will be favored together with Pine Pep, owned by Mrs. William J. Clothier, Philadelphia. Pine Pep won the 1949 running it down, and Phil Rizzuto took a relay from DiMag, and pegged it smartly to Yogi Berra at the plate. Coach George Myatt at third base was frantically waving the limping Nagy all the way, and he labored toward the plate.

Nats Whip Yanks on Homers by Nagy, Noren

Berra Fumbles Ball

Actually, Rizzuto's relay beat Nagy home, but in his anxiety, Yogi Berra fumbled the ball as runner and pellet converged on him. Umpire Bill McGowan called Nagy safe on his slide, and he was credited with a homer.

The Nats used every stalling tactic in the book at that point, before Coan made the third out, in an attempt to restore to Nagy his breath, and when he finally went to the mound for the first of the ninth, the crowd stood and cheered in complete tribute.

Nagy calmly disposed of pinch-hitters Johnny Mize and Billy Martin for two quick outs and then, obviously tired, he walked Phil Rizzuto, his first pass of the night save for an intentional walk to Lindell. When Coleman singled to left, the Yanks had the tying run in scoring position, but Nagy lured Bauer into lofting to Noren, and had his victory.

It required the full drama of a pitcher winning his own ball game with a homer, to put Rookie Noren's seventh-inning, game-tying feat in the shade in the thrill department.

Noren's Homer Real Blast

The two ex-Coast Leaguers, Nagy and Noren, were a potent pair all evening. Nagy with his gritty pitching exhibition plus his homer, and Noren with a bat that twice wiped out Yankee leads.

Back in the third inning with the Yankees ahead, 2-0, Noren blasted a long triple off Fred Sanford against the bull pen in right center to pave the way for two Washington runs. But he reserved his peak contribution for the seventh.

At that point the Nats were desperate, with the Yanks in front 4-2. To safeguard their margin, Casey Stengel withdrew Sanford for a pinch-hitter installed Page as his man in the seventh.

Gil Coan, drew a walk, but the Nats' hopes sagged when Dente flied out. But Page's next pitch was loaded with two Washington runs. Noren literally bombed it over the right center field wall atop scoreboard for one of the longest homers ever hit in the stadium, and transformed the park into a Noren Admiration society, the Yankees excepted.

Triple Play Big Help

To hold the Yankees to four runs, Nagy needed all his pitching savvy, including the triple play the Nats gave him, because he was in trouble in five different innings.

The Yankees banged Nagy for eleven hits, in contrast to the Nats were stealing Yankee home run thunder last night while four of the Yankees blows were infield affairs.

Joe DiMaggio lifted the Yanks into a 1-0 lead in the second inning with a long home run blast into the left center seats, and only the triple play behind him enabled Nagy to hold the Yanks to one mere run in the second.

It was a rare sort of triple killing the Nats executed, after the Yankees had scored a run on Collins' hit through the infield, and Sanford's double down the left field foul line. Rare in that it commenced with a routine out-field fly.

Rizzuto Sets Up Triple Play

Phil Rizzuto, who had beaten out a bunt for the Yanks' third straight hit, moving Sanford to third, was on first base when Coleman lifted a modest fly to Ed Stewart in right field. Unaccountably Rizzuto took off around the bases at the crack of the bat, and was easily doubled up by Stewart's rifle peg to Robinson at first.

Meanwhile Sanford, tagging up at third base, was attempting to score after the catch, and the rapid-thinking Robinson wasted little time on a throw to home after stepping on the bag to double Rizzuto. His on-the-button heave into Grasso's mitt nipped the lumbering Yankee pitcher for the third out.

Noren needed his three runs-batted-in later in the game to take him off an embarrassing spot, because in the first inning he pulled a skull that cost the Nats a run and broke up what looked like a big inning.

He drew a pass with two out, and moved to second when Sanford

END OF TRIPLE PLAY—This excellent action picture of last night's Yankees-Nats game at Griffith Stadium shows the third out of a triple play executed by the Nats in the third inning. Pitcher Fred Sanford of the Yankees, attempting to score from third, is out at the plate. Nats catcher is Mickey Grasso. Calling the play is Umpire Bill McGowan. Jerry Coleman lined to Eddie Stewart in right field for the first out. Stewart's throw doubled Phil Rizzuto off first, and Eddie Robinson's quick peg to Grasso caught Sanford

Bob Scatters Eight Hits In Winning 2d of Year

Detroit, April 28 (AP).—The veteran Bobby Feller showed all his oldtime mastery today as he held the Detroit Tigers to eight scattered hits while his Cleveland Indian teammates pounded out a 6-1 win.

It was the second straight win for the Cleveland righthander whose task was made easier by seven walks issued by Detroit pitchers.

Four of those who walked ultimately scored as a chilled crowd of 15,155 saw the American League leading Detroiters bow to Feller.

Teddy Gray, first of three Detroit pitchers, gave up only three hits in seven innings, but he walked four men and was trailing 3-0 when lifted for a pinchhitter in the seventh.

Cleveland got its scoring under way in the fifth inning as Bob Kennedy walked. Al Rosen fanned, but Mickey Vernan also drew a walk. Kennedy and Vernon moved up on a double steal to set the stage for Jim Hegan's single to left scoring both men to give Cleveland a 2-0 lead.

The Indians made it 3-0 in the seventh as Rosen walked and came all the way home when Outfielder Vic Wertz let Mickey Vernon's single to right get past him for an error.

Cleveland tucked the game away in the ninth as it climbed all over Relief Pitcher Hal White and Paul Calvert for three more runs on three hits, a walk and a wild pitch.

Cardozo Wins 440-Yd. Relay Title in Philly

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

Philadelphia, April 28.—Cardozo High won the 440-yard relay title, and Georgetown University's Billy Mitchell finished a snappy second in high hurdles as the Penn Relays began at Franklin Field today.

But the Washington, D. C., boys had to take a back seat to a collegiate record-breaking performance by New York University's sprint medley team.

Reggie Pearman, NYC crack half-miler, staged a dramatic down-the-stretch rally to nip Morgan State's Bill Brown by the proverbial hair's breadth, and complete a 3:22.7 race. The old record of 3:23.0 was set by Oklahoma at the 1942 Drake Relays.

Navy, Howard and Georgetown all had teams in that race, but they were completely outclassed. Georgetown's Dave Boland, running the 440-yard leg, sprinted to a lead after 50 yards but lost it as Morgan State stepped to the fore, and stayed there until Pearman's great finish.

* * * * * * *

Except for the sprint medley, two hurdles, the quarter-mile relay and the shot and discus throws, in the college class, the high school and grammar boys held the spotlight today. Tomorrow is the big day for the big boys.

Cardozo, a track team without a track, provided the highlight of the high school competition by winning the 440-yard relay for the first time in five years.

Terp, Marine Get Fourth

Earl Storm, Joe Walker, George Carter and Henry Johnson hit the tape for Cardozo in 43 seconds, and each pocketed a $50 watch as his prize. A smart pass of the baton from Storm to Walker turned the tide in favor of Cardozo after it trailed in the early stages.

Burly Bill Mitchell, who has been trailing Penn State's Jim Gehrdes in the Nation's top hurdles events for two years, again had to settle for second behind the United States champ in the 120-highs. Gehrdes tied the meet mark of 14.3 seconds in order to nip the driving Mitchell by two strides and two-tenths of a second.

Maryland's Mario Salvanelli was one of the four out of 33 to qualify for the 400-meter hurdles, but he wound up fourth in the title running with a 55-seconds clocking. The Roosevelt High alumnus had done better in the trials, 54.3 Cornell's Charlie Moore won it for the second time in 51.3.

also walked Robinson. Stewart singled sharply to right field, and Noren was out at home when he under-rated Bauer's arm and tried to score standing up, when a slide would have taken him out of reach of Berra's tag.

Gil Coan opened the Nats' third with a single and, with one out, Noren whacked his three-bagger against the right-center bullpen to score one run and put another in scoring position. Sanford walked Robinson, but Stewart got the tying run home at that point with a long fly to DiMaggio.

The Yankees bounced right back into a 3-2 lead in the fourth when Bauer singled to left and Berra singled to right with one out. Bauer scored when Robinson failed to come up cleanly with Johnson's hard smash and had to be content with an out at first base.

Nagy was pitching off a bad foot when the Yankees upped their margin to 4-2 in the seventh. Lindell opened up with a single, and with one out Pinch Hitter Jackie Jensen rapped a fearful smash off Nagy's right instep, and beat it out for a single. Eventually the Yankees packed four hits into the inning.

Rizzuto beat out a single to Dente that filled the bases, and Coleman lined a single to right. Lindell scored on Coleman's blow, but Yankee coaching cautiously held Jensen up at third. That proved a fatal mistake.

Nagy bore down, and held Bauer to a ground ball that Yost grabbed up and pitched for a force-play at the plate. With the bases still full, Nagy got rid of the DiMaggio threat by holding him to a modest fly to center.

That was the last run the Yankees ever did get.

Ray Scarborough will take a fling at the Yankees tonight in the second of the series. They licked him thrice last year, while he was winning one. It will be Allie Reynolds for the Yanks.

Miss Prime Comes Back On Last Day

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Charles Town, W. Va., April 28. Make Hay clinched the sprint championship of this section by turning in his fifth straight victory—every start at the meeting which closed today.

The son of Hayride, operating in the colors of Joe Paoli led every jump of the way in the Hadley Purse named in honor of the Apple Blossom queen.

Jockey Johnny Regalbuto, as usual, was up on Make Hay and drove the three year old into the wire to take a neck photo victory over A. A. Fishback's Metaphor. Third in the field of eight was J. P. Simpson 3d's Principal Joe.

Going six and one half furlongs after winning four times over the about four and one half furlongs course, Make Hay proved formidable at the longer distance and hung up time of 1:22. As was the case in his last three outings, Make Hay was a favorite and paid $5.

A crowd of 4000 watched Make Hay bound to the front at the break of the Valedictory feature. Principal Joe and Tintrel tried to keep up with the public choice going to the first turn but Make Hay opened a daylight advantage.

Regalbuto then steadied the 3-year-old. Approaching the stretch, Metaphor, Tintrel and Principal Joe began to close in on the leader and Regalbuto went to the whip. In the final drive, Metaphor moved up to be a serious threat, but Make Hay proved game to the core and staved off the longshot going into the finish line.

J. N. Barnes' Miss Prime, one-time "queen of the minor tracks" resumed her winning ways in the seventh race, the day's secondary feature. After running second four consecutive times—three behind Make Hay—Miss Prime won by a length.

The 7-year-old mare, a $3.60 favorite, was clocked in .50 1-5, the fastest time of the 18-day meeting for the about 4½ furlongs. Jockey Freddie Kratz was aboard the winner.

Joe Paoli, trying to make it two winners say his By Me finish second. In third position in the field of eight was J. I. Losen's Bold Moment.

21-Day Meet Opens Today At Pimlico

Pimlico, Md., April 28.—Pimlico opens tomorrow afternoon for a 21-day race session. In trend with the times officials for the tradition-laden track are not looking for a bounty of one-million-dollar mutuel handles, but have geared operations to meet opposition from Garden State Park and still come out in the black.

The session, which also includes nine Havre de Grace programs, as usual will be highlighted by the $50,000 added Preakness Stakes. In the abandonment of the former "stake-a-day" program there will be but three added money events presented this spring. In addition to the famed 3-year-old classic, the popular Dixie Handicap and the Pimlico Breeders' State will be renewed this season.

An overnight 6-furlong dash carrying a $5000 purse, The Baltimore Spring, tops today's card. The sprint drew a representative field of nine handicap and allowance performers including three Dixie eligibles, C. E. Tuttle's Double Brandy, J. E. Hughes' Vital Sun and Richard E. Carter's Oriole. This trio will be opposed by E. A. Stone's Rare Mineral, Hill Farm's Raise You, H. Guy Bedwell's Daily Dip, R. R. McClarin's Abbottstown, Bobanet Stable's King Midas and E. A. Nicodemus' Laran.

There will be eight races offered daily throughout the program with post time set at 2:15 p. m., with the exception of Preakness Day when post time will be advanced to 2 p. m. Daily double windows will close 15 minutes prior to first post. Tuesdays will be "dark days" at the Baltimore City plant.

Old Liners Beat Terps in Squad Game

Coach Jack Hennemier's Old Liners defeated Coach Bill Meek's Terrapins, 19-12, at Byrd Stadium last night in Maryland's third annual spring intrasquad scrimmage.

A crowd of about 4000 sat in on proceedings, which wound up six weeks of spring football practice for Head Coach Jim Tatum's squad.

Lynn Davis, junior halfback from Baltimore, had a hand in the first two Old Liners' touchdowns.

He caught a lateral from Fireman Quarterback Jack Scarbath of Baltimore and passed nine yards to Pete Augsburger for the first score in the first period. Minutes later, Davis caught a 28-yard pass from Scarbath for the second touchdown.

Fullback Dave Clanelli, a converted guard, rammed over for both Terrapin touchdowns, going over from two yards out in the second period and from one yard out in the fourth quarter. Fullback Walt Boeri ran 9 yards for the decisive Old Liners' score in the fourth quarter.

Old Liners	13	0	0	6	—19

Touchdowns: Old Liners, Augsburger, L. Davis and Boeri; Terrapins, Clanelli (2).

Administration Backs 75% of Hoover Plan For Civil Service

The Administration yesterday indorsed 75 percent of the recommendations of the Hoover Commission for sweeping changes in the civil service system.

Its stand came as a surprise to many groups and individuals who had assumed the Administration was trying to sidetrack the Hoover personnel report.

The Administration's views were disclosed by Assistant Budget Director Elmer B. Staats who told the Senate Postoffice and Civil Service Committee:

1. Each agency should have the direct responsibility to recruit, examine, select, and appoint persons to its civil service jobs under standards and safeguards laid down by the Civil Service Commission.

2. Any appointing officer who allowed political considerations to govern appointments should be fired.

3. The so-called "rule of three" should be liberalized to give appointing officers more freedom in choosing people for many types of jobs.

4. Veterans should be required to earn passing grades on civil service tests before preference points are added.

5. Ten points preference should be limited only to those veterans who have at least a 10 percent disability.

6. Disabled veterans who pass civil service exams should be "floated" to the top of the register except when the job is professional or scientific in nature and carries an entrance salary of $3000 or more.

7. The State quota law is "contrary to the principle of appointment on merit" and it is expensive to administer." Staats suggested the committee look into the operation of the law which he said had "serious administrative disadvantages."

8. The budget official also said there is "serious objection" to the law that requires the Civil Service Commission to maintain personnel records on every Federal official and employe.

9. The Civil Service Commission should be directed to develop a better career service (a) to advise and assist the departments and agencies in constructing and operating career development programs, and (b) to establish a program to assist the agencies as they may request to fill their intermediate and principal career positions.

10. Congress should authorize training under civil service to prepare employes to take over more difficult or advanced work, to insure use of new methods, discoveries, and so forth.

11. Additional time for experience should be allowed before any changes are made in the various systems of fixing employe salaries. In other words, the Administration sidestepped the Hoover suggestion that the salaries of most Federal workers be fixed by area wage boards, based on living costs in the respective areas.

12. The present efficiency rating system should be replaced by the job performance plan recommended by the Civil Service Commission.

13. Supervisors should be required to certify that an employe's performance and conduct are satisfactory before he can be given an in-grade promotion.

14. In making reductions of force veterans should be retained only in preference to other competing employes with a total service of less than 10 years. It would place the qualified veteran, Staats said, on equal terms with the qualified nonveteran with 10 or more years of service.

Chairman Harry B. Mitchell of the Civil Service Commission, read a statement to the committee in which he took issue with Staats on the provision to allow departments and agencies do most of their examining and recruiting.

D. C. Studies How to Close Inspection Loopholes

Rules of Conduct May Be Changed To Prevent Winking At Illegal Building

Changes in rules of conduct for employes of the District Department of Inspection are being considered, it was learned yesterday.

This disclosure followed action by the District Commissioners in suspending one assistant building inspector and authorizing dismissal of another.

Lieut. Col. Thomas J. Hayes, 3d, assistant engineer commissioner in charge of the Department of Inspection, said two specific changes are under consideration, intended to:

1. Tighten up a section in the department's Manual of Instructions which forbids employes to accept money in connection with any official action. Hayes said the Corporation Counsel felt the section should forbid not only "acceptance" of, but also "requests or hints" for, money.

None Under Investigation

2. Require any employe who has knowledge of improper conduct on the part of any other department employe to report it to appropriate department officials.

The entire manual, published a year ago, may be reviewed, Hayes said. No other employe of the department is under investigation, he disclosed.

His statement followed the announcement Thursday that the Commissioners had suspended Assistant Building Inspector Frederick A. Humm and authorized the dismissal of Assistant Building Inspector Lester W. Kimble, under suspension 10 days.

The Commissioners' letter to Humm stated there was cause to believe he received money from a person connected with a project Humm was inspecting.

"A Clean Department"

Papers authorizing Kimble's dismissal, approved by the Commissioners and released by their secretary, Geoffrey M. Thornett, said Kimble had permitted "construction work to be done not authorized by a building permit . . . and failure to report such work to his superiors."

Robert H. Davis, director of inspection, said yesterday only four employes of his department had been dismissed for irregular actions since 1935. There are about 85 inspectors in the department's six divisions, he said.

"We feel we have a clean department," Davis told reporters, "and we're doing everything we can to maintain it as such."

Meanwhile, Clark F. King, assistant corporation counsel in charge of the criminal division, said he was making an investigation to see if action should be taken against the owner of the building where Kimble reportedly permitted unauthorized construction.

King said Nick Basiliko, owner of the buildings at 1014, 1030 and 1034 Euclid st. nw., had appeared before him Tuesday. The case was continued until May 31, King said, to let building engineers determine if the unauthorized work conforms with building regulations.

Basiliko told a reporter last night: "It was simply a case of the contractor going a little too fast with his work." Basiliko said he had stopped the work of converting the former Garfield Hospital nurses quarters back to their original apartment use, and had applied for a building permit.

Daniel B. Maher, special assistant corporation counsel, last night said he had started the investigation ordered by the Commissioners in the Humm case. He would not specify the course it is taking.

Embryo Lawyers Told: Go South

The South and Southwest offer the best opoprtunities for the new crop of lawyers coming out of the Nation's law schools.

That, at least, is the official advice of the Labor Department, as expressed yesterday by Millard Cass, assistant to the Undersecretary of Labor, before the University of Virginia Law School in Charlottesville, Va.

The profession is particularly overcrowded in the District of Columbia and in the very large cities he said. Foremost among the expanding job markets of the country are the South and Southwest, he added.

Rigsbee Plans Self-Defense Plea in Slaying

By Joseph Paull
Post Reporter

First-degree murder defendant James A. Rigsbee, 35, will claim he shot in self-defense when he killed Joseph H. Scheve, a gambler, in a pool hall here December 10.

Defense Attorney James J. Laughlin told the jury, before Judge Alexander Holtzoff in District Court yesterday, that Rigsbee feared for his life because of numerous threats by Scheve.

"Big Joe" Scheve was dropped by one of four bullets shot in his direction by Rigsbee, according to the Government, at the poolroom at 913 9th st. nw. Witnesses have testified the two had been arguing when Rigsbee left to return an hour later with his .38 revolver.

In testimony yesterday, Homicide Squad Lieut. Richard J. Felber said that Rigsbee, when arrested, was "very willing to make a complete written statement."

The statement was admitted in evidence but was not immediately read to the jury. Lawyers in the case said its contents were so lurid and vulgar that only excerpts could be read. However, six copies were made for possible distribution to the jury.

In his defense, Rigsbee offered as witnesses three inmates of District Jail who said they were present the evening of the shooting.

Ernest Alcatraz White, who said he was working for a "bookmaker" when he was arrested a month ago, declared Scheve packed a gun on several occasions.

He testified Scheve had borrowed a knife to threaten Rigsbee, but did not have it at the time of the shooting.

White related that Scheve had called Rigsbee a "punk and a stool pigeon," and another time had said, "I'm going to run you out of every place you come in."

George A. Duncan, 23, declined to quote all of the epithets he said Scheve called Rigsbee. He testified the coat he held over his arm was punctured by two bullets fired by Rigsbee.

Duncan asserted that Scheve moved toward Rigsbee at the time of the shooting and that Rigsbee fired his first shot into the ground. Duncan also said that Scheve declared earlier, "I'm going to kill that ——," meaning Rigsbee.

Thomas Charles Olson, 18, also testified that Scheve had threatened to kill and had bragged that at one time he caused Olson to commit a degrading act at gunpoint.

Olson said he did not witness all of the shooting.

"I was behind a pool table, laying on the floor," Olson said.

On Appeal

Court Eyes Jury Charge In Lewis Case

By Ben Bradlee
Post Reporter

A Court of Appeals judge yesterday said that District Judge Alexander Holtzoff virtually told the William "Snags" Lewis gambling jury that "it's your duty to convict."

"That is a very serious question," Judge Henry W. Edgerton told Government lawyers during oral arguments on the appeal brought by Lewis and two co-defendants.

Lewis, alleged head of a 14-million-dollar-a-year gambling syndicate, Attilio Acalotti, and Frank Billeci were convicted after a three-week trial by a jury that deliberated for 19 hours. They were sentenced to serve 10 to 30, 8 to 24, and 8 to 27 months, respectively.

One man has already been indicted for tampering with that jury, and the FBI is still investigating.

Although attorneys for the convicted gamblers claimed there were 26 instances of reversible error a three-man Court of Appeals tribunal yesterday concentrated on the so-called "Horning charge" given the jury by Judge Holtzoff.

In that charge, Judge Holtzoff read the jury an excerpt from instructions given a Police Court Jury here in 1919 and later approved by the Supreme Court: "In a criminal case, the court cannot peremptorily instruct the jury to find the defendant guilty. If the law permitted I would do so in this case."

Assistant U. S. Attorney William Hitz argued that Judge Holtzoff omitted from the Horning charge a part which read "Of course I cannot tell you in so many words to find the defendant guilty, but what I say amounts to that."

Judge Edgerton replied that what Judge Holtzoff "did say was the equivalent of 'It's your duty to convict.' Damn liar is stronger than liar. But it still means you are a liar."

Judge James Proctor then asked Hitz "Why does a judge express an opinion if he doesn't want the jury to be influenced by it?"

Hitz said that the jury deliberated for nine hours after receiving the Horning charge, indicating that they were not influenced by it.

William H. Collins, counsel for Lewis argued, that the indictments and search warrants were defective.

Myron G. Ehrlich, counsel for Billeci, concentrated his fire on the instructions to the jury and five additional instructions, "each one unsolicited by the jury."

Judge E. Barrett Prettyman was the third member of the tribunal.

District Jail Inmate Dies During Seizure

Leroy Davis, 32 a prisoner in the District Jail, suffered an unexplained seizure last night at about 9:30 p. m. and was pronounced dead 15 minutes later by the jail physician.

Davis,who was committed Wednesday to await trial on a charge of housebreaking, suddenly became a wild man, said Corrections Director Donald Clemmer, as though in the throes of a fit.

East Capitol Bridge Foes Drop Fight

Two Park Agencies And Commissioners Reach Compromise On Span Approach

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

Two Federal agencies yesterday dropped their opposition to a House-passed bill for bridging the Anacostia River at East Capitol st.

The agencies are the National Capital Park and Planning Commission and the National Park Service. They ceased their opposition because the District Commissioners, through Brig. Gen. Gordon R. Young, Engineer Commissioner, promised that if the bill is passed, the District Commissioners will consider, but not necessarily accept, a compromise route for the western approach to the bridge.

This route, proposed by the parks agency, would link the East Capitol st. bridge, via nearly a mile of highway along the western bank of the Anacostia, to Massachusets ave. se., where the two agencies had said the bridge should go.

Terms Are Verified

The idea and the Commissioners' agreement to consider it were reported by General Young to the Senate District Fiscal Affairs Subcommittee headed by Senator Lester C. Hunt (D., Wyo.) during a morning hearing at the Capitol. Terms were verified by William W. Wurster, chairman of the planning commission, and A. E. Demaray, associate director of the National Park Service.

A central idea of the roundabout approach to the bridge is to carry out the design of the planning and park agencies for recreational developments, including a sports center and ornamental lake, in the area where more direct approaches might be made to the East Capitol st. bridge. One of the direct approaches would carry East Capitol st. bridge traffic into the line of East Capitol st. Another would route it to B st. ne. and B st. se., which are the extensions of Independence and Constitution aves.

Maj. Gen. U. S. Grant, 3rd, witnessed the loss of the fight he has made for the Massachusetts ave. location.

Grant Still Opposed

Gen. Grant, chairman emeritus of the planning commission, made it clear he's still fighting the plan. He said it's the wrong location. He said the compromise was to the credit of NCPPC but against the public interest. He said it is very doubtful if the Commissioners will build the bridge there and make the "detour" approach. Sooner or later, he said, the E. Capitol st. bridge will be routed through the sports center area.

George V. Graham, chairman of the Washington Board of Trade's committee on highways, strongly indorsed the East Capitol st. plan. Mrs. Leslie B. Wright, of the Northwest Council of Citizens Associations, warmly indorsed Gen. Young.

Rufus Lusk, president of the Washington Taxpayers Association, tossed a Latin phrase by the orator, Cicero, at the reasoning of the Board of Trade. He said the phrase means "their silence is a shout" when they failed to mention the East Capitol st. bridge will cost 4 million more than the Massachusetts ave. bridge.

Representative J. Glenn Beall (R., Md.) spoke for himself and Representative Lansdale G. Sasscer (D., Md.) in urging the committee to approve the bill. Others who spoke for the bill included Russell H. McCain, a member of the Maryland State Roads Commission, Bernard Chapman, chairman of the Public Works committee of the Federation of Civic Aspresident of the Southeast Citizens Association. Against the bill were Archie C. Edwards, president of the North Randall Community Association, and Martin Atlas, counsel for the real estate firm of Morris Cafritz. The latter said Cafritz objects on the ground of unnecessary cost and on the ground that it will depress real estate values in an area where Cafritz properties, including the Greenway apartments, representing investments of many millions, are located.

Alerted for Crash, Attorney Lands His Plane Safely

A Hyattsville attorney yesterday safely landed a rented light plane at Erco Feld, Riverdale, after airport officials alerted police and fire departments of a possible crash. Bolling and Andrews fields were also informed he might attempt to land there.

The pilot, Robert L. Edwards of 6020 43d ave., had attempted a landing and was concerned his landing gear had been damaged. Other planes viewed the plane in the air, but could discern no damage.

After Edwards and his passenger landed without difficulty mechanics reported there was no earlier damage, Dick Sanders, Erco field manager said.

Worried Parents Not Amused At the Story of Pat and Mike

By Harry Goodwin—The Washington Post

OUT ALL NIGHT—Michael, (left) 6, and Patrick, 9, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Williams of 4500 Canal rd. nw., were back home today after spending the night in an automobile while a dozen policemen searched over a wide area near their home. Posing with their dog, Daisy, they seem in good spirits after their adventure

It seems there are a couple of fellows named Pat and Mike. It seems also they stick together and you can't scold them without trouble, even if Pat is only 9 years old and Mike is 6.

A couple of someones tried it Thursday, and it took a round dozen of policemen before the results were all unwound.

Pat and Mike are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Williams, who live at 4500 Canal rd. nw. As police unraveled the story, a nun at St. Stephen's School, 24th and K sts. nw., scolded Pat for allegedly tearing a girl's sweater. Later, a resident near the school scolded him for the same thing. Threats were made to telephone his parents.

So Pat decided not to go home and Mike stuck with him.

At 1 a. m. yesterday, the parents notified police and a search began. At 8 a. m. Capt. Beverly Beach of the Seventh Precinct assigned four foot-policemen, a squad car crew and a patrol wagon crew to the search. He obtained two foot-patrolmen from the Park Police, and Harbor Precinct police brought a rowboat to the vicinity of the Williams home on a jeep, intending to drag the C. & O. Canal. The other policemen searched underbrush over a wide area.

But about 8:30 a. m., Pvt. Julius L. Debroski, handling traffic near the Hardy public school, spotted the missing lads among other children. He picked them up, took them first to Georgetown University Hospital for a checkup and for dressing of a cut on Michael's hand.

Then, the search was called off and the lads were reunited with their worried parents. They wouldn't tell policemen—any policemen—where they had been.

Mrs. Williams finaly elicited the story of the scoldings. And the boys said they had found a parked auto which was unlocked, and slept in it through the night.

They didn't go to school yesterday. Mrs. Williams said only that they were "in bed, resting."

Arlington Boy Badly Hurt by Panel Truck

Six-year-old Tommy Symons, of 2621 N. Quantico st., Arlington, was seriously hurt yesterday when a delivery truck ran over him as he rode his wagon in the street near his home.

The youngster, son of Col. Arthur Symons, assistant to the editor of the Infantry Journal, was reported in fair condition at Arlington Hospital last night, with internal injuries and multiple lacerations.

The driver of the Hecht Co. panel truck, John W. Porter, 36, of 914 6th st. nw., was charged with reckless driving. He was released on personal bond pending a hearing Monday in Arlington County Court.

Porter told Arlington police he was going about 15 miles an hour north on Quantico st. when the accident occurred. He said he was looking to the left, in search of an address, when his helper, Rudolph Davis, 23, of 315 F st. sw., called out to him to "Hold it," police said.

He applied his brakes, but one wheel had alaready passed over the youngster when the truck came to a halt, police said.

The child was taken to Arlington Hospital by the Arlington Rescue Squad.

'Nolle Prosse' Nuptial Gift For Parker

A man who will delay his honeymoon to try to pay a parking ticket is rare indeed, and that is why Edward W. Zurawski, 30, got off free.

Zurawski came here from Hartford, Conn., with his fiance, Miss Stephanie Cudo, and they were married at St. Patrick's Church yesterday morning. As Zurawski left the church he found a little white slip under his windshield charging him with illegally parking at the church entrance.

According to Assistant Corporation Counsel Clark King, it was a few minutes thereafter that Zurawski appeared at Municipal Court to see what he should do about the ticket. In addition the bridgegroom was in a hurry to get to Winchester, Va., and begin honeymooning.

King said that under the circumstances he could do nothing less than decline to press charges.

"I think that Zurawski holds the title of the world's most conscientious motorist," said King. "On my honeymoon, I didn't think about parking tickets."

Phoenix Named Student Leader At Georgetown U.

B. J. Phoenix, a junior in the College of Arts and Sciences from Chicago, has been elected to Georgetown's highest student office for the coming year president of the yard—a position similar to president of the student government at other institutions—it was announced yesterday.

Phoenix

Also elected were: Secretary Frederick Hart of Flushing, N. Y., and Treasurer Thomas Hardiman, Concord, N. H.

Hardiman, who was unopposed, is captain-elect of next year's football team.

The present officers, who will retire when their class graduates on June 12, are: Yard President Daniel A. Degnan of West Orange, N. J.; Yard Secretary Joseph N. Foley, Winchester, Mass., and Yard Treasurer Cornelius O'Doherty, Woburn.

Sharp Rise In Grants to Needy Cause For Alarm

911 Asked Public Aid In March, Welfare Dep't Carries 500 Over Current Budget

A total of 911 persons applied to the District Welfare Department for public assistance in March—the largest number since last August.

This figure was reported by Welfare Director Gerard M. Shea at a meeting of the Board of Public Welfare. Shea said the rise was "apparently part of a Nation-wide trend" upward and was cause for "alarm."

He pointed out that the department is presently carrying 6886 cases, about 500 more than the current budget anticipated Any increase in load means "we have to cut up what we have so each person will get some," he warned.

Cut in Grants Due

An 8 percent cut in all relief grants will go into effect May 1, Shea reminded. This is on top of a 12 percent reduction made earlier.

Since welfare grants were on a 1946 cost of living basis in the first place this year, the two reductions bring the May grants to about 45 percent below the amount needed at today's cost of living for basic subsistence, the board pointed out last month.

The department does have a request pending in a District supplemental appropriation for funds to offset the 8 percent cut, but there is little possibility such cash will be forthcoming shortly, Shea noted.

To Return Bankbooks.

The department's problem will be slightly relieved by another action taken by the board yesterday. The board ordered bankbooks totaling $4234, held for 23 relief clients to assure them "a proper burial," be returned to them with the statement that they are not eligible for aid while they have such bank accounts.

If they should die fundless as a result, the department will arrange an "honorable burial."

Shea also announced the quarantining yesterday of the Industrial Home School Annex on Loughborough rd. nw., and its 137 occupants because of measles. The ban will continue until two weeks after the last case is cured, Shea said. In the interim, children will be placed in the Receiving Home.

Way Cleared For Parkway Bill in House

House Rules Committee clearance was voted yesterday for the bill to authorize completion of the Washington-Baltimore Parkway.

Under the Rules Committee decision, the parkway bill was sent to the House floor for one hour of general debate, plus whatever time is taken by amendments, but no date has been set for House action.

The bill, prepared by the House Public Works Committee, authorizes the spending of 13 million dollars in Federal funds to complete the parkway from the District line to a point near Fort Meade, Md., about 19 miles away. The remaining 12-mile stretch to Baltimore is to be built by Maryland.

Besides the Maryland portion of the parkway, this bill calls for Federal construction of about half a mile of parkway through Anacostia Park within the District. This portion will link the Maryland section to the extension of New York ave. ne. which the District has undertaken to build as the major link with the Washington street system.

In asking the House to approve the bill, the Public Works Committee, headed by Representative William M. Whittington (D., Miss.) reported that the present main highway from Washington to Baltimore is crowded beyond its safe capacity. The parkway is designed to take a substantial portion of the traffic load.

The rules group also gave its clearance for the House to take up the bill to authorize the Federal Government to buy portions of the block which includes Blair House and Blair-Lee House.

Widow Found Sane by Jury; Son Says He Won't House Her

A white-haired German widow whose own son believed her insane was declared yesterday of sound mind.

With tears streaming down her cheeks, Mrs. Charlotte Roloff, 55, listened as the jury foreman gave the verdict in her favor during a sanity hearing in District Court.

Mrs. Roloff's son by a former marriage, Ernest G. Reuning, an astronomer at the Naval Observatory, testified that he did not believe that his mother was capable of managing her own affairs.

Mrs. Roloff, who came here three months ago to live with her son, stoutly protested her sanity in the proceeding before Judge F. Dickinson Letts.

Psychiatrists disagreed as to her condition.

Reuning told the jury that he would not be willing to take his mother back into his home even though she were found to be of sound mind. He resides on the observatory grounds.

Thomas W. Collins, court-appointed attorney for Mrs. Roloff, said that attempts are being made to find shelter and employment for her.

The lawyer told reporters that she now has $10 to her name. Her husband, a German army captain, was killed in World War II.

Wise Canine Hit by Truck Goes To Hospital Emergency Room

Fifteen-year-old James Bailey of 47 Pierce st. nw. is sure no pedigreed canine of the most ancient lineage has the common sense his plain old dirty white cur showed yesterday.

James' nondescript mutt, named Ringo after a radio program character, was hit by a truck yesterday on N. Capitol st., near Pierce st., and he knew just where to go.

Ringo hobbled along the sidewalk to nearby Sibley Hospital, down several steps and into the open door of the emergency room. Witnesses to this canine sagacity included Miss Dolores Reed of 1716 Bay st. se., a Sibley Hospital laboratory technician, and several friends of James', who raced to tell him what had happened to his pal.

Doctors and nurses who gathered around Ringo did what they could for him, but decided he'd better be transferred to another hospital, that of the Animal Rescue League at 70 O st. nw. They feared Ringo's hip bone was broken.

James sadly agreed to the transfer and resigned himself to a dogless existence while Ringo recovers.

D. C. Hospital Declares 50% Stock Melon

By S. Oliver Goodman

Directors of Doctors Hospital, Inc., have declared a 50 per cent stock dividend, it was learned yesterday. Stockholders have been notified that they will receive one new share for each two shares held.

The corporation, which operates the hospital in the 1800 block of I st. nw., will increase its capital to 7500 shares of $100-par stock from the present outstanding total of 5000 shares. The dividend rate of 6 per cent a year is expected to continue.

Johnston, Lemon & Co. have been named agents to handle fractional shares resulting from the stock dividend. Certificates of participation will be given to such fractional holders, who must dispose of them by 2 p. m. on June 1. The investment house will act as depository for the fractional shares and sell them, giving the proceeds to the holders.

Latest bid price on Doctors Hospital stock, ex-dividend, was quoted as $100 or the equivalent of $150 for the old stock. The shares are widely held in small lots by the medical fraternity.

RECORD CLEARINGS: Washington bank clearings continued their record pace in April, climbing to $360,724,018, a new high for that month. This compared with $300,751,165 in the same month last year. Cumulative total for the first four months reached a record $1,410,030,446, as compared with $1,215,702,979 in the comparable 1949 period, according to the Washington Clearing House Association.

ODD LOTS: Norfolk's whopping 52 percent increase in March department store sales was due principally to the sharp increase reported by one store which has moved into new and larger quarters . . . Scott Paper Co. plans to double its outstanding common shares by issuing an additional share for each one held on next July 27 . . . Safeway Stores' sales for four weeks ended April 22 were down 3.2 percent from year-ago level and were off 5 percent for year to date.

IMPROVEMENT: The first quarter of 1950 for Trans World Airline promises to be better than the same 1949 period, President Ralph Damon told shareholders at the annual meeting Thursday. Approval was given to change the system's old name from Transcontinental & Western Air Inc. to the present title and also to a proposal for an employes retirement plan. All directors and officers were reelected.

WHO'S WHO TODAY: Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railroad has opened a traffic office in the Continental Building, here under the supervision of General Agent William H. Peake . . . Max F. Balcom was elected board chairman of Sylvania Electric Products, Inc., and Frank A. Poor was named vice chairman . . . C. J. Backstrand is the new president of Armstrong Cork Co., succeeding H. W. Prentis, jr., who was made board chairman . . . Haughton Ball has been elected vice president and general counsel of Mutuel Life Insurance Co. of New York, and Stanton G. Hale has been elevated to vice president and manager of agencies.

Mrs. Chapman's Tea Fetes 'Little Cabinet' Wives

Mrs. Truman and Mrs. Barkley came to Mrs. Oscar Chapman's tea yesterday in her apartment at the Westchester given for the wives of members of the "Little Cabinet."

Mrs. Chapman was a "Little Cabinet" wife herself, before her husband was promoted from Assistant Secretary of the Interior to Under Secretary and subsequently to Cabinet rank. As the "Little Cabinet" group has grown so materially since those days, Mrs. Chapman's idea of the party was to give the group opportunity to meet each other.

Wives of members of the Cabinet were also there—all but Mrs. Charles Sawyer, wife of the Secretary of Commerce who's still in Palm Beach, and Mrs. Maurice Tobin, wife of the Secretary of Labor, who spends most of the time at her home in Boston.

Assisting the hostess at the tea table were "Little Cabinet" wives—Mrs. C. Girard Davidson and Mrs. William Warne, whose husbands are Assistant Secretaries of the Interior.

Mrs. F. M. Gould Entertains for Guest

MRS. Frederick Mitchell Gould was hostess at luncheon yesterday at her home on Woodland dr., for her guest, Mrs. Roswell Colt of New York and Newport.

Among the guests were Mrs. Harold O. Smith, jr., Mrs. Eugene Cox, Mrs. Albert A. Jones, Mrs. Samuel Alexander, Mrs. W. Royce Powell, Mrs. Valentine Pottle, Mrs. James A. Murray, Mrs. Gary Hughes, Mrs. J. V. Murphy, Miss Rhoda Low, Mrs. Curtis Shears, Mrs. Samuel Ross, Mrs. Robert LeBaron, Mrs. Matthew White Perry, Mrs. Tomas Cajigas, Miss Madeleine Austin and Miss Cornelia Bowie.

Stag Luncheon Held For U. S. Ambassador

THE PARAGUAY Ambassador, Dr. Luis Oscar Boettner, was host at a stag luncheon yesterday in honor of Fletcher Warren, United States Ambassador to Paraguay.

Other guests were Ambassadors Mauricio Nabuco of Brazil, Augusto Dillon of Ecuador; Fernando Berckemeyer of Peru; Jose Rafael Pocaterra of Venezuela; Rafael de la Colina of Mexico; Mario Echandi Jimenez of Costa Rica; Hector Castro of El Salvador; Rodolfo Herbruger of Panama and Rafael Heliodor Valle of Honduras.

Also, Jose Mora, Uruguay Ambassador to the Organization of American States; Edward C. Miller, Assistant Secretary of State; the Counselor of the Argentine Embassy, Fernando Errecart; Oswaldo Chaves, Paraguay delegate to U. N.; Howard Tewksbury and Kenneth Okaley of the State Department, and the First Secretary of the Paraguay Embassy, Atilio Montania.

Dinners were also given last night by Mr. and Mrs. William P. MacCracken, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bruguiere and Senator and Mrs. Robert C. Hendrickson who entertained at Anderson House.

Myron Taylor, former personal representative of President Truman at the Vatican, and Mrs. Taylor, were among the guests at Mr. and Mrs. Bruguiere's dinner which was followed by a dance. Alexander Haas and his gypsy orchestra were down from New York to play for dancing.

Italian Admiral Honored at Embassy

VICE ADMIRAL EMILIO FERRERI, chief of staff of the Italian Navy, who arrived here yesterday was entertained at dinner last evening by the Italian Ambassador and Signora Tarchiani.

In the group asked to meet him were the Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Francis Matthews, The Chief of Naval Operations and Mrs. Forrest Sherman, Admiral Felix Johnson, Capt. Henry T. Dietrich, USN, and Mrs. Dietrich; Captain and Mrs. Mauro, Admiral Capponi and Admiral Tallarigo, who accompanied Vice Admiral Ferreri.

DATE-BOOK DATA:

Vice President and Mrs. Alben Barkley are the guests in whose honor the retiring Undersecretary of Commerce and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney will give a dance on May 19.

Former Ambassador and Mrs. Joseph Davies have invitations out for a dinner May 23. Mrs. Davies will also be hostess at luncheon on May 5.

Gen. Clifton Cates, Commandant of the Marine Corps, and Mrs. Cates will entertain at dinner May 4.

Maj. Gen. and Mrs. W. D. Connor have sent out invitations for an afternoon party on May 8. And Mr. and Mrs. Sidney C. Graves will give their annual garden tea on Wednesday, May 10.

Gold-crested invitations have been received from the Thailand Ambassador and Princess Wan Waithayakon for a reception Friday afternoon, May 5, in celebration of the Coronation of His Majesty the King.

Judge and Mrs. Bennett Champ Clark will give a party on May 9 from 5:30 to 7:30 at their home on Q st.

D. C. Lewises Join Kenmore Celebration

The Lewises went back to Kenmore yesterday, the home in Fredericksburg, Va., built by Col. Fielding Lewis in 1752 for his bride, Betty, only sister of George Washington.

Some 200 members of the Lewis family came by train and plane for the annual meeting of the Kenmore Association, which was followed by tea with "Miss Annie" Lewis as hostess.

Washington area decendants of Lewis who attended were Mrs. Lomax Plater Tayloe of Vienna, Va.; Mrs. Elliott Thurston of Alexandria, Mrs. Mary Key Lewis and Mrs. Thomas Lewis Peyton.

Miniature Presented

In addition there were Mrs. Nancy Berry Chapin of New Jersey, Mrs. Louise Settle of Seattle, Wash.; Mrs. Lewis Bowman of Bronxville, N. Y.; Mrs. Gordon Burnett of Atlanta, Ga.; Mrs. Lewis Harrison of Richmond, and Mrs. William Chisholm of Charleston, S. C.

For Miss Annie the high light of the afternoon was the presentation to the Kenmore Association of a memorial miniature owned by Liza Lewis inherited by her daughter, Eleanor Rosalie Harris Thornton. The antique jewel shows Betty Lewis weeping at the tomb of her brother, George Washington.

With the State Societies

Predict Snow—and Sugar

By Nicha Soure

EVER BEEN to a sugar party? You don't have to go to Vermont to attend one. The Vermont Association of Washington has gala plans for a real sugar party here in Washington, complete with Vermont maple sugar and snow.

The party will feature a chicken box supper, sage cheese, doughnuts and coffee and the sugar on snow with "plenty of pickles."

The traditional pickle, according to Col. Paul Holbrook, chairman of the party, is served at all sugar parties. It serves to whet the appetite and reactivate the taste buds for—you guessed it—more snow and sugar!

The party will be held on Wednesday, May 3, at Pierce Hall, 15th and Harvard sts., at 7 p. m. Informality will be the keynote of the Vermont get-together with plaid shirts and gingham dresses the costumes of the day.

Square dancing has taken over the Vermont Society, too. Playing the music for dancing will be Mrs. Welch's Trio, featuring Chief Charles Lindsey and his famous one and only home-made base ocarina, and Doc McDougald, Arkansas authority on square and folk dancing.

Tickets and reservations may be obtained from Col. Jack Crowley, 5321 McKinley st., Bethesda, Md. (Wisconsin 5365) before May 1.

THE WEST VIRGINIA State Society will hold its annual spring dance tonight at 10 o'clock in the West ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel. This dance is for members of the Society and their guests.

THE CONFERENCE of State Society Officers will hold its annual dinner meeting at Dupont Plaza Hotel on Monday, May 1, at 6:15 p. m.

The nominating committee, composed of William Clay, Mrs. Esther Costa, Robert Joy, Clarence McCune and Holden Rhymes, will present a slate of officers for the conference's approval. Additional nominations may be made from the floor.

On the business program will be a discussion of the State Societies participation in the Sesquicentennial Celebration.

The officers of the thirteen original States have met and selected Miriam Crowley to represent them in the 150th birthday of the Nation's Capital. Miss Crowley is the star of Irving Berlin's musical "Miss Liberty."

TWO events will spot the Iowa State Society calendar this week.

The first is a reception and tea in the Caucus room of the Senate Office Building on Sunday, 3:30 to 6 p. m.

On hand to greet the Iowans will be the president of the society, Representative Charles B. Hoeven, and Mrs. Hoeven. They will be assisted by Senator and Mrs. B. Hickenlooper, Senator and Mrs. Guy M. Gillete, Representative and Mrs. Thomas Martin, Representative and Mrs. Karl M. LaCompte, Representative and Mrs. Ben Jensen, Representative H. O. Talle, Representative and Mrs. Paul Cunningham, Representative and Mrs. James I Dolliver and Representative and Mrs. H. R. Gross.

The annual dinner of the society will be held in the Burgundy Room of the Wardman Park Hotel at 12:30 p. m. Sunday, May 7. Reservations may be made by May 3 through Gertrude L. Gromann at Columbia 2000, apartment 208-I.

THE ANNUAL May Ball of the Georgia State Society will be held on May 6 in the West Ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel. The ball, which will be at 9:30 p. m., will conclude the spring activities of the society.

Danoing will be the chief feature of the evening with bridge and canasta tables available. Mrs. E. B. Jackson and Mrs. Hugh Peterson are in charge of the tables.

The dance committee includes the Misses Ann Gunnells, Sara Boyer, Marjorie Ryan, Marcia Green, Ann Reid, Martha Brown, Virginia Hornsburckle, Martha Williams and Ann Norman.

Also Al Wallace, Bill Hawthorne, Ben Stembridge, Robin Reid, Wisner Ray, Jim Nelson, William Wingate, Jack Jones, Hugh Green and Capt. Norman Creech.

Serving on the reception committee will be Mrs. Robert Ramspeck, president of the society, assisted by Mr. Ramspeck, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Tate, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Geeslin, Mr. and Mrs. Lacy Hinely, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Buchholz, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Crawford, Mrs. Evie Walk, Miss Julia Reynolds, Miss Kitty Reynolds and Miss Winona Thurston.

Further information about the dance and the society may be obtained through Mrs. J. W. Thurston at Randolph 6833.

THE NEW YORK State Society is inviting all the State societies to attend the sixth annual Maytime dance and cruises aboard the streamliner Mount Vernon on May 5. The cruise will leave the 7th street wharf at 8:30 p. m.

Accompanying the New Yorkers on this opening night of the new river season will be the societies of the following States: Alabama, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Idaho, Kansas, Maine, Maryland, Michigan, Mississippi, New Hampshire, New Jersey, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Dakota and Wisconsin.

Featuring the occasion will be dance contests, refreshments and amusements for young and old. The boat will sail, rain or shine, and Washington "sea-farers" are urged to be aboard early.

Tickets may be obtained from the officers of the State societies participating or, on May 5, at the wharf. Further information may be obtained from Miss Dorothy Gollinger at Kenmore 3-5004.

ARNOLD M. LEDERER was reelected president of the Illinois State Society at a business meeting Wednesday night.

Serving with Mr. Lederer will be Miss Fay King, vice president; Mrs. Ann L. Calkins, second vice president; Representative C. W. Bishop, third vice president; Clifford J. Waldron, fourth vice president.

Also, Miss Charlotte A. Marr, reelected treasurer; Miss Florence Hallgren, secretary; Miss Daisy Lawrence, assistant secretary; and Miss Elsie A. Green, reelected historian.

The final dance of the Illinois State Society will be held from 10 p. m. to 1 a. m., May 13, in the large ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel.

U. N. Delegate To Speak May 8 On 'New Israel'

The Washington Chapter Hadassah, one of the sponsors of Washington Town Hall, is actively aiding the ticket sale for the lecture by Aubrey S. Eban, permanent representative of the State of Israel to the United Nations on Monday, May 8, at 8:30 p.m. in Constitution Hall. The topic will be "The New Israel."

Mr. Eban, who is 34, was a lecturer in Oriental languages at Cambridge University in England. He went to Palestine in 1940 as liaison officer between Allied Headquarters and the Jewish population and remained after the war as chief instructor of the Middle East Center of Arabic studies.

Irish Unity Pleas Heard

Militant wearers of the green opened a new drive in the House yesterday to bring United States diplomatic pressure to bear on Britain to end the partition of Ireland.

A House Foreign Affairs subcommittee, headed by Representative Mike Mansfield (D., Mont.), began public hearings on a number of resolutions to put Congress on record as strongly opposed to partition.

After hearing several witnesses, however, the group concluded its hearing without acting or even setting a date for considering the various resolutions without acting or even setting a date for considering the various resolutions. There were no opposition witnesses.

The witness list included the American League for an Undivided Ireland. The Eire Society, Sons of St. Patrick, Ulster Irish Liberty League and the United Irish Societies.

Paul O'Dwyer, in charge of coordinating activities of the American League, said a "Nazi-style" police state is operating in northern Ireland and is being financed with American aid dollars.

House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack (Mass.) was loudly cheered by an overflowing crowd of spectators when he told the subcommittee that partition "is unnatural and wrong."

Representative John E. Fogarty (D., R. I.) indorsed McCormack's plea. He was the author of an amendment — once tentatively passed by the House but later rejected—to cut off Marshall Plan aid to Britain until partition is ended.

Representative Christopher C. McGrath (D., N. Y.) asserted "the British are more than anxious to solve this problem and would welcome our help." Noting that communism has no foothold in Ireland, he said a united Emerald Isle could "become a key democratic stronghold."

Representative Jacob K. Javits (R., N. Y.) asserted that "action by Congress would have a major influence" on solving the partition dispute.

Delaware's 'Dover Day' To Be May 6

Preparations are now being made for "Dover Day," held for years on the first Saturday in May by residents of Dover, Del., the small but picturesque capital.

The date this year is May 6. Gov. Elbert N. Carvel will be present, and Hugh C. McClelland, C. B. E., British Consul General at Philadelphia, will bring Dover a message from its sister city, Dover, Kent, England.

Visitors will be welcomed to the fine old homes and lovely gardens. Priceless collections of antique furnishings, china, glass, silver, jewelry and paintings will be on view. Colonial costumes are worn by many of the townspeople.

As in previous years, on the ancient green and in certain of the gardens, folk dancing will be held. There is to be a Maypole and the choosing of a May Queen at Wesley Junior College, followed by a colonial tea in the college parlors.

A number of old homes in nearby Smyrna are also thrown open as part of Dover Day. Visiting hours in Dover are 11 a. m. to 5 p. m.; in Smyrna, 10 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Cooking School Holds Open House

Open house will continue through today at the new Washington School of Cooking, 1711 I st. nw.

The public is invited to visit the school, operated by Emma T. Watts, to see modern kitchens, equipment and furnishings. It offers both day and night classes for small groups of women and men.

The Gallup Poll

U. S. Protestants Favor Move For Church Unity, Poll Finds

By George Gallup
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., April 28.—The weight of sentiment among Protestants is in favor of a move to merge all Protestant churches in the United States into a single church, a Nation-wide survey by the American Institute of Public Opinion indicates.

Fifty percent of the Protestants questioned in the survey signified their approval, while 39 percent were opposed and the rest expressed no opinion. This represents an increase in favorable sentiment as compared to earlier surveys in 1937 and 1948.

However, only about one fourth of all Protestants questioned said they believe their own churches would support the merger.

The current merger proposal grew out of sessions in Greenwich, Conn. last December, when a Permanent Conference on Union of Protestant Churches was organized under the direction of Bishop Ivan Lee Holt, St. Louis, Mo., of the Methodist church.

The first question was:

"A committee of church people in the U. S. is studying a plan whereby all Protestant churches in this country would join to form a single Protestant church. What is your feeling about an idea of this kind—would you be in favor of it or opposed to it?"

A closely similar question was put to the public in 1937 and again in 1948 by the Institute. Here is the trend of sentiment among persons who classified themselves as Protestants.

VOTE OF PROTESTANTS

	1937	1948	TO-DAY
Favor	40%	42%	50%
Oppose ...	51	47	39
No opinion	9	11	11
	100%	100%	100%

In today's survey this second question was asked of the entire sample:

"What do you think would be the attitude of your own church on the question of forming a single Protestant church in America—do you believe your church would favor that plan or oppose it?"

PROTESTANTS ONLY

Church would favor	28%
Church would not favor ..	45
No opinion	27
	100%

For Fare Boost

Bus Line Asks ICC to Pave Way

The Arnold Bus Lines yesterday asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to clear the way for an increase in the special rate between the District and Government installations in Virginia.

The firm, officially the Washington, Virginia & Maryland Coach Co., asked the ICC to exclude the 10-cent rate between Washington, and the Pentagon, Navy Annex, and Arlington Farms, from a special order now in effect.

The Alexandria, Barcroft & Washington Co. filed a similar request with the ICC last week.

A 16-cent joint fare on lines of the Virginia bus companies and Capital Transit Co., would not be affected.

Both companies would have to file specific rate increase requests later, if these petitions are granted.

The special "Pentagon fares" were not affected by a recent 5-cent cash increase in most Arnold Bus Line rates. A. B. & W., which has announced it will seek a fare increase shortly, could not include the Pentagon fares in the proposed over-all boost, without permission from the ICC.

The A-B-C of Psychiatry

1 of Every 10 Persons Needs Mental Care

These articles are the answer to a question thousands of Americans are asking: "What is psychiatry and what does it mean to me?"

George Thorman, a director of the Children's Bureau, Marion County, Ind., is a veteran reporter of scientific and medical subjects. He prepared these articles in close cooperation with the National Mental Health Foundation.

The articles are a condensation of "Toward Mental Health."

By George Thorman

CHAPTER SIX

The problem presented by nervous and mental diseases is an enormous one — the most serious medical problem facing our Nation.

Out of every 20 living persons, one will spend part of his life in a mental hospital. Recent studies indicate that one out of every 10 persons in the United States needs treatment for some personality disorder.

Nervous and mental diseases take a larger toll than do cancer, infantile paralysis, and tuberculosis combined. How can we cut this toll?

We can cut the toll if we have more mental hygiene clinics where parents can come to talk over with trained persons their own problems and the problems of their children.

Specially trained social workers are needed to follow up these patients, to work in the schools, and to help in making necessary adjustments in the homes of the patients. Clinics can sometimes ward off an impending illness by giving prompt treatment and save persons who might otherwise have serious breakdowns. In other cases life is made bearable and productive.

Every community should have such a center. Yet there are 25 States which do not have even one clinic. There are vast areas of other States where no psychiatric treatment can be had. We have only one-fifth of the number of clinics we need.

Maintaining our public institutions for the care of the mentally ill costs us over 200 million dollars each year. Yet these funds are not enough to maintain minimum standards of physical well-being. Some of our States spend as little as 40 cents a day to care for each patient as compared to private institutions which spend from $8 or more a day per patient.

In some instances, State-supported institutions spend only 30 cents a day a patient for food. Some of our public institutions are money available for new structures. Few new hospitals are being built and most architectural plans follow traditional but outmoded patterns.

A good hospital needs enough doctors, nurses, and attendants to give each patient the treatment he requires.

When one doctor has to care for as many as 1000 patients (as is the case in some instances), he simply can't give intensive and individual treatment.

Authorities estimate that we need at least four times as many psychiatrists as are now available.

Now let's take a look at what we are doing to make up this tremendous deficit.

If a medical student wants to go into psychiatry as a career, he first must serve as a resident doctor attached to a hospital approved by the American Psychiatric Association, estimated that "at now crowded to almost twice their capacity.

Mentally ill persons are forced to stay in buildings that have been condemned because there is no tion.

There are less than 300 vacancies each year in approved centers for psychiatric training, and in December, 1944, there were only 237 residents in training.

Dr. Edward Strecker, former president of the American Psychiatric Association, estimated that "at the present normal rate of training men to care for people who are sick mentally, it would take us a hundred years to educate a sufficient number."

The longer the patient goes without treatment, the slimmer are his chances of recovering. With the severe shortage of doctors, nurses, attendants and other staff workers facing our hospitals, patients go too long without any specific treatment and eventually are added to the growing number of chronic cases that are already overcrowding our institutions.

What Is Being Done?

Various professional organizations are trying to meet the problem of nervous and mental disease. The American Psychiatric Association sets up standards for care in psychiatric hospitals, encourages the training of psychiatrists, psychiatric nurses, and psychiatric aides.

The Commission on Hospital Care of the American Hospital Association is encouraging the development of psychiatric wards in general hospitals.

Some training centers are being established to train psychiatrists and nurses. A heartening recent development was the establishment of the Menninger Institute of Psychological Medicine at Topeka, Kans.

The school is assisted by the cooperation of the Veterans Administration and plans to receive 150 doctors in successive classes for graduate training in psychiatry.

You can join with doctors and others in the fight against nervous and mental disorders by aiding organizations that are working for the improvement of mental institutions, by helping to establish centers for prevention, treatment, and research.

You can treat mentally ill persons as sick persons in need of understanding and humane care. You can convince others to take the same intelligent attitude.

You can see to it that your community provides facilities for prevention and early treatment.

The fate of the 8 million persons who would profit from expanded psychiatric services hangs in the balance—people like Fred, George, and Mary—people who are your neighbors, your friends, and your relatives. We are accountable to them. We must not fail.

Traffic Death Jails Driver

Calvin N. Dorsey, 20, was sentenced yesterday to serve 180 days straight time in jail and to pay a $250 fine or serve an additional 180 days for negligent homicide.

Dorsey was convicted March 27 by a Municipal Court jury in the December traffic death at 5th and K sts. ne., of Henry Meeks, 58, 206 5th st. se.

Meeks was hit last Christmas day by an auto that failed to stop. He died in Emergency Hospital December 30. Dorsey was arrested a few days later at his home, 6100 Brinkley rd., Oxon Hill, Md.

Police traced a small piece of a light fixture found at the scene to a car owned by Dorsey's brother. On the witness stand Dorsey admitted having driven that car on Christmas night.

In sentencing Dorsey, Judge George D. Neilson said the public has to be protected, and "this man would never have been apprehended but for the good work of the police department."

Vance C. Nessly, 18, of 518 Missouri ave. nw., was sentenced yesterday in District Court to serve a year in prison for petty larceny of clothing here.

In pronouncing sentence, Judge Alexander Holtzoff also reinstated a suspended two-to-eight-year term which had been given Nessly earlier in a robbery case. The two sentences will run concurrently.

Could Anyone Stand 20 Hours of Berle?

By Sonia Stein

TODAY'S THE DAY you can test out that business of "too much of a good thing." Or, if you feel that way about it, "too much of a bad, bad, bad thing."

Because today, and as it blurs into tomorrow, are the days when you can watch Milton Berle on television for more than 20 hours straight. (Heavens! Where did you all disappear to?)

Anyway, it's for a good cause—the Damon Runyon Memorial Cancer Fund—and numerous other stars will drop in to lighten the burden on Berle and the burden of Berle on the audience.

Last year on a similar occasion Berle stayed on the air for 16 hours, retiring fresh as a perspiring daisy at 4 a. m. with telephoned pledges of over a million dollars to his credit.

This year, Berle expects to start in at noon today and stick with the job until 10:30 tomorrow morning except for 2½ hours out when the "Saturday Night Revue" comes on at 8 tonight. And if he doesn't stick his head in to say hello on that show, it'll ruin my faith in Berle. (Locally it'll be aired by WNBW.)

Working out of Studio 6B at NBC's Radio City Studios, where he normally does his Tuesday night TV show, Berle will accept pledges by phone and will be assisted in taking pledges—advance-calculated at about 25,000—by volunteer operators.

Arrangements have been made for feeding nearly 300 persons involved in the operations, according to a press handout from NBC. I'll pack my own box lunch and be on hand. Last year I had a chance to talk to a brother of Berle. Fellow out in Pittsburgh. He wouldn't pledge any money with me, just wanted to talk to his brother, Milton. Wouldn't talk to his sister, who was supervising the backstage calls, either. I felt honored to have met him, even on the phone. None of the Berles ever have.

Besides being on hand for that, I want to see who I get mistaken for this year. Last year somebody took me for Berle's wife and I'm trying for his mother this year.

SO FAR THE Horace Heidt troupe, touring the occupied countries in Europe, has suffered only one casualty. Accordionist Dominic Frontiere stepped on what he thought was the stage of the opera house at Weisbaden and went tumbling 20 feet through some cloth into the orchestra pit. He broke his leg but is otherwise OK.

The band was chiefly worried about the $500,000 chandelier which Napolean presented to the Kaiser and which hangs in the opera house. They were afraid one of their notes would hit a responsive chord with the chandelier and sending it crashing down on their heads.

A responsive chord they hope they've hit is with the German Youth Activities organization, for whom they performed in Berlin early this week. Because the CBS Heidt show gives opportunities to youngsters who are aching to be entertainers—and even provides college education and music lessons, for some—Heidt and his troupe hope they've given a sample of democracy to the German youngsters that may be useful along about May 27 when half a million Communist-inspired young people are expected to spill over into American-occupied Berlin from Russian-occupied Berlin.

Primarily the Heidt troupe went to Europe to entertain our servicemen—and to give the talented boys stationed there a chance at winning on the amateur show—but the secondary assignment looks mighty big to them, too.

Heidt says he knows of no other show that would demonstrate American democracy better than this one, and there's something in that. It's a show in which contestants win on their audience appeal, not on some judge's idea of what talent is. And that's certainly democratic as an American election.

Shows in which the servicemen are participating are currently being aired on CBS (WTOP, 9:30 p. m. Sundays) via transcriptions flown here. Heidt is transcribing some of the civilian shows, too, and hopes to have them broadcast here on a special basis.

The DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

It's Almost That Time Of Year Again

Irwin Abell of 2505 Q st. se., suggests that it's not a moment too soon to resume our annual custom of exchanging vacation notes, for the benefit of those who'll be leaving town soon.

He starts us off with the news that he's just back from Richmond, Va., where he ate at Grunewald's. They specialize in seafood, and District Liner Abell says: "The food was delicious; I heartily recommend it."

Anybody else with tips or ideas for vacationers is invited to speak up now—before we blunder into the usual boob traps.

WHERE CREDIT IS DUE

The news columns told the other day of the alert, heroic work of Motorcycle Officer Edward Cave.

He flagged down a speeding taxi containing two members of the "Pimple-Faced Gang," and took the hoodlums into custody at gunpoint.

I'd like to note that this is the same Officer Cave whose "Yellow-light" charge I beat in court, after items here had criticized his speed-trap tactics. The big guy covered himself with glory in the capture of those gangsters, and I think he's earned our town's sincere thanks.

COMPLAINT DEPT.

A Government employe who prefers to remain anonymous has sent me this letter:

"The menu card in Government cafeterias puzzled me for a long time. On Fridays, under the heading "Soup," it lists clam chowder.

"A soup is a liquid food made by boiling meat, vegetables, etc., in water, with seasoning added. However, a chowder is a stew of clams, fish, etc., made with milk (presumably).

"Although I was convinced that soup is soup and clam chowder is something else, I recently decided to try a bowl of this soup-clam-chowder.

"The test convinced me that what was served me was neither soup nor chowder, for it was without the benefit of seasoning, milk or clams.

"If Senator McCarthy has time for just one more investigation, I hope he will undertake a probe to determine the last date on which a clam was part of Government clam chowder."

GIVE-AWAYS

"Four adorable kittens, 6 weeks old, part-Maltese, with black-and-white markings. Will deliver." (Fairfax 554-W.)

"Three beautiful tiger-striped kittens with white paws; housebroken; can deliver." (Warfield 9070.)

"Two lovely, housebroken 2-month-old tiger-striped male kittens." (Lincoln 4-1439.)

"Four 6-week-old puppies, playful, cute, part collie." (Oliver 6745.)

"Four female puppies, 5 weeks old." (Alexandria 0118 after 9 a. m.)

SOME JOKE

Hill Saunders of 952 N. Livingston st., Arlington, Va., reports on the dirtiest trick of the week.

Its victim was a local professor, recuperating at Georgetown University Hospital.

A group of "humorists" called several florists and grocers, and ordered elaborate fruit and flower baskets sent to the invalid's room, C. O. D. The professor was so unnerved by the experience that his recovery was retarded.

After the "joke" was exposed, hospital attendants refused to accept delivery of the other baskets. So the florists and grocers were also victimized.

It takes a first-class dimwit to consider this sort of thing humorous. I used to know a fellow back home who thought it was screamingly funny to call for an ambulance in the middle of the night, always using somebody else's name and address, of course.

The police cured him of the habit in short order. There's nothing funny about a $25 fine.

THOUGHT FOR TODAY

C. E. Planck of 3234 N. Pershing dr., Arlington, Va., observes: "Nothing ages a high school teacher like a high school student."

Mixed Signals Scuttle GOP Parley

By Drew Pearson

A private Republican cocktail party, called to chart a new liberal policy, got all messed up when some nonliberals were invited by mistake.

Pearson

Charming Mrs. Robert Low Bacon, widow of the late Congressman from New York, and the Perle Mesta of the Republican Party, had invited a few Republicans to her home to discuss a new progressive policy of the Teddy Roosevelt variety. Though she is the daughter-in-law of a J. P. Morgan partner—former Secretary of State Robert Bacon—she represents a group of Republicans who believe the Democrats should not have a monopoly on liberalism.

When her guests started arriving, however, they included such Senators as Karl Mundt of South Dakota, Homer Ferguson of Michigan, Alex Smith of New Jersey and Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts—charming cocktail companions, but not crusading liberals.

This disturbed the real liberals who suggested—in whispers—that they call off the meeting. Ignorant of this dissension, Mrs. Bacon blissfully herded her guests into a room where folding chairs had been set up and bade them listen to Russell Davenport, editor of Fortune magazine, spearhead of the GOP liberal movement.

A bit hesitantly, Davenport explained the liberal policy statement he had drafted. The suspicion of New Jersey's Senator Smith, the former Princeton professor, was immediately aroused.

"I want to know whether there's anything to the report that this is to be an anti-Taft meeting," he demanded. "If it's going to be anti-Taft, I want to withdraw. I haven't made up my mind, but I may be for Taft.

"We can't build up the party," said Smith solemnly, "by undermining the party leaders."

In the discussion that followed, Minnesota's Senator Ed Thye complained that the Republicans weren't paying enough attention to the farm vote, while Saltonstall was "concerned" about factionalism inside the Republican Party and agreed with Smith that "we should be working for unity, not division."

New York's Senator Irving Ives started to leave, but was stopped before he could get out the door. Asked for his comments, he replied bluntly that he liked Davenport's policy statement but that it "must be put into action."

"That means it must be put into action at the polls," he explained.

Oregon's Senator Wayne Morse protested that he didn't have much to say because it "might be interpreted as a funeral sermon, and I didn't come to bury the GOP."

However, he agreed with Ives that a liberal policy statement would be "meaningless unless it is related to a candidate for office."

"We must support those who support it and oppose those who oppose it," he declared.

Probably the most cautious guest was presidential aspirant Harold Stassen, who insisted he only "came to listen." He admitted, however, that such "discussions" of GOP policy were helpful and should be conducted throughout the country. He also made an appeal for recruiting more young people into the Republican Party.

A few other guests also made cautious remarks, then rather nervously the meeting adjourned. It appeared that most of Mrs. Bacon's GOP guests were a little timid about Teddy Roosevelt progressivism.

Capital Capsules

Brannan Headache—Secretary of Agriculture Brannan hasn't heard the end of his famous St. Paul speech. The General Accounting Office is now investigating the Agriculture Department for paying 5000 county committeemen to listen to him. The committeemen were paid travel expenses to St. Paul, plus $8 per diem in order to drum up an audience for their boss. Unfortunately for Brannan, the investigators found that Radio Station WCCO in Minneapolis made a wire recording of the speech—and every word of it was political.

Influence Behind Budenz—One almost unnoticed key to Louis Budenz' comparatively recent accusations against Lattimore may be the article by Father James F. Kearney in the Knights of Columbus Magazine. Both to the FBI and at his Senate committee appearance, Budenz emphasized that this article was "proof" of Lattimore's Communist affiliation. Actually, the article gave no proof, only said: "There are those, though, who believe that no Americans deserve more credit for the Sino-American disaster than Owen Lattimore and a small group of his followers." In talking to the FBI, Budenz emphasized this article repeatedly, as if it had carried great influence with him.

Are Colleges Smuggling?—Dozens of surplus warplanes, sold for a song to United States colleges, have been disappearing from the campuses and showing up in South America. Altogether, more than 1000 military planes were sold to schools at prices ranging from $100 to $200. The contracts stipulated that these planes should not be flown, must be used for educational purposes only and could not be resold except as scrap. A few exceptions were made with the permission of the War Assets Administration. However, dozens of planes have mysteriously disappeared and have been smuggled to Latin America.

Merry-Go-Round

Senator Tom Connally, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, snorted like a Texas longhorn when he heard President Truman had made peace with GOP Senator Bridges of New Hampshire. Off-the-record, Connally called the President's action a "blunder" and an "affront" . . . "Cotton Elmer" Thomas, the speculating Senator, is now sending out a weekly farm letter to attract farm votes. The catch is, it's being ghost written by a Senate Agriculture Committee clerk—Rollis Nelson—whose salary is paid by the taxpayers.
